SENATE DEBATES PRIOR TO BONUS VOTE

INFLATION ONLY ISSUE IN DOUBT; 69 TO VOTE AYE

Limited Argument Expected
to Result in Ballot Before Evening

BULKLEY IS UNCERTAIN

Donahey Listed in Favor of
Payment By System of
"Baby Bonds"

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—(UP)—A test on inflation was the only hurdle remaining today in the path of prompt Senate enactment of the "baby bond" bonus bill.

Passage of the measure before nightfall was anticipated as the Senate, in its first Saturday meeting of the session, clamped a limit on debate. The debate was raging through the early afternoon.

The inflation fight centered around an amendment proposed by Sen. Elmer Thomas, D., Okla. It was expected to be rejected, as soon as a vote could be reached.

Denies Inflation

Thomas said during debate that his amendment should not be considered as inflationary but rather as an order expansion of currency within the range afforded by surplus gold and silver.

He proposes issuance of about $2,000,000,000 in new money, which to pay the bonus, rather than use of bonds as in the Senate substitute for the bill passed by the House last week.

The bond plan, Thomas contended, would in the end cost about $4,000,000,000 because of the interest that would be paid over a nine-year period.

A Senate survey on the eve of the vote showed there would be against the bill when it is brought only a scattering of ballots to final passage.

The situation was as follows:

NEW COLD WAVE WHIRLING EAST; TO HIT SUNDAY

Zero Weather Predicted for
Chicago Area; Airplane
Traffic Halted

By UNITED PRESS

A swirling snowstorm swept over the midwest and whirled toward the Atlantic seaboard today, grounding airplanes and blocking many highways.

North central states were blanketed with snow. Northwestern Iowa reported the heaviest snowfall in a decade. Wisconsin country roads were impassable. Kansas and Missouri felt the effects of the storm yesterday as it moved rapidly toward the east.

Pushed by strong winds, the storm struck Chicago last night and was expected to leave six inches of snow on the ground. Available WPA and PWA workers were notified to report for snow removal duty.

Waves Lash Harbors

High waves lashed ice-packed Lake Michigan harbors. At Kenosha, Wis., the fishing tug Cherio, with a crew of four aboard, rode out the gale outside the harbor when ice chunks prevented a landing.

Both east and west airplanes were grounded at Chicago because of snow-covered landing fields in both directions. Plane service continued between Cleveland and Newark, N. J., during the night but was expected to stop when the full fury of the storm hit that area.

BRITAIN WORRIES AS KING GEORGE IS STRICKEN ILL

Bronchial Catarrh, Weak

SPECIALISTS ARE PRESENT

Royal Family at Country Residence; Villagers Turned
By Illness

SANDRINGHAM, Eng., Jan. 18.—(UP)—A doctor's bulletin timed 3:30 p. m. (10:30 a. m. EST) said King George's cardiac weakness was slightly increased and was giving "cause for anxiety."

The bulletin was signed by the King's physicians, Lord Dawson of Penn, Sir Stanley Hewett and Sir Frederic Jeune Williams, and by Sir Maurice Cassidy, famous heart specialist who had been called into consultation.

SANDRINGHAM, England, Jan. 18.—(UP)—King George V lay gravely ill of bronchial catarrh today in a specially heated and ventilated room at Sandringham House, his country residence on the east coast.

Signs of heart weakness caused acute anxiety, and Sir Maurice Cassidy, heart specialist and physician extraordinary to the King, was summoned from London to reinforce three eminent physicians already at the bedside.

The King passed a comfortable night, after early restlessness. It was reported that oxygen, rushed from London late last night, was administered during the night.

Specialists Called

Other specialists were expected later today, to hold a consultation on the possibilities of complications.

Sir John Simon, home secretary—whose duty it is to be at a sovereign's death bed—was advised almost hourly of the king's condition.

Queen Mary, the Prince of Wales, the Duke and Duchess of Wales, the Duke and Duchess of York, and the Duke of Gloucester and Cambridge, were expected to arrive today.

Hoffman Directing Effort To "Clean Up" Abduction

Complete Solution of Lindbergh Abduction Only Way New Jersey Executive Can Clear Self After Reprieve; Wilentz
Ready to Issue Scathing Statement Against Governor

TRENTON, N. J., Jan. 12.—(UP)—Gov. Harold G. Hoffman prepared to meet a fresh onslaught of foes today while directing every resource he could command toward the one achievement that can lift him from political desperation to dazzling triumph—complete solution of the Lindbergh case.

Two lines of attack on the man who reprieved Bruno Hauptmann were forecast.

First, Attorney General David T. Wilentz, who prosecuted the convicted murderer of the Lindbergh baby, may make a statement that, it was understood, will be a bitter attack on the governor for issuing an allegedly illegal reprieve.

May Contest Reprieve

Second, impeachment plans continued in the Legislature although action may be delayed until after a final decision on whether a taxpayer will start court proceedings to have the reprieve declared illegal. Such action might be the basis for impeachment, one prominent legislator said.

But greatest interest centered on developments in the drive of Hoffman—who has received half a dozen death threats as well as many letters of praise—to reopen every doubtful phase of the crime of the century in an effort to bring about a complete solution or a confession.

Hoffman's chief but distant goal was to discover whether persons other than Hauptmann were involved. It was understood that he had ordered new search for suspects, especially the mysterious man known as "John" who spoke with a "Scandinavian" accent.

YOUTH JAILED AS PURSE-GRABBER

Mrs. H. G. Stevenson Reports
Money Stolen Near Home

Police and county officers arrested a 16-year-old negro youth whose name was withheld Friday night for investigation following the third "purse-snatching" case in the city since Jan. 2.

The youth's arrested followed theft or a purse from Mrs. H. G. Stevenson at 11 p. m. Friday as she was walking near her home on W. Union-st. It contained five or six $1 bills, some change, a ring of keys, a vanity case and a silver pencil.

Near Residence

Mrs. Stevenson reported she was about 50 feet from her home when a man of medium height and with his face covered, walked up to her and said "How do you do." She said she spoke to him and he grabbed her purse, leaving the chain handle in her hand, and ran down an alley toward the downtown district.

She notified police and a search of the neighborhood was conducted by city officers.

A man answering the same description as given by Mrs. Stevenson made an unsuccessful attempt.

FIVE IN CONTEST FOR TWO COUNTY ELECTIVE POSTS

William Cline, Former Trustee,
Obtains Petition for Commissioner Job

WELDON FOR PROSECUTOR

Present "Dads" Withhold
Statements; Many Names
Mentioned for Primary

A free-for-all contest for the commissioner jobs now held by Burr H. Rader and Ralph E. May loomed today as additional names were added to the list of candidates.

William H. Cline of Muhlenberg-twp., leader among Pickaway-co's trustees, obtained a petition Saturday from the board of elections for the Democratic nomination. Mr. Cline is no longer a trustee but has served as an official of the state association, and has been active in county affairs for a long while.

He was a resident of Walnut-twp. until he recently removed to Muhlenberg-twp.

Four Others Named

Mr. Cline's name is placed beside those of John Bailey of Monroe-twp., William Beavers of Circleville and Scioto-twp., William Curry of Perry-twp., and John Keller of Scioto-twp. Neither Bailey, Beavers, Curry nor Keller have obtained petitions but all have announced to friends and the press that they intend to run.

If all the persons who say they will be candidates file for the primary a situation probably never seen in Pickaway-co will exist. Both Mr. Rader and Mr. May are serving their initial terms. The former has declared often that he does not intend to run, but interviewed a few days ago, he said he had not definitely made up his mind. Mr. May is expected to be a candidate. It has always been an "unwritten" custom in the county that persons in office are permitted to run with only minor opposition. Since so many candidates are ready to enter the contest it is certain the competition will be far from minor.

Weldon for Prosecutor

Another name was entered in the race for prosecutor today when Lemuel Weldon, associated with his father, C. A. Weldon, in a legal practice, announced for the Republican primary. He intends to obtain a petition early next week.

Quite a coincident will occur in the election, providing Mr. Weldon wins his primary and George, E. Gerhardt, Democratic candidate, goes through his primary contest without defeat. Both candidates are sons of former prosecuting attorneys.

OHIO EX-SHERIFF GIVEN TWO-YEAR PEN SENTENCE

Ray Potts, Akron, Convicted of Conspiracy; Court Hands Out Maximum

CLEVELAND, Jan. 18.—(UP)—Ray Potts, former Summit-county sheriff, today prepared to enter the Lewisburg, Pa., federal penitentiary where he will serve a two-year sentence for conspiracy to violate the internal revenue laws.

Potts and five others were convicted late yesterday by a jury of nine men and three women. Federal Judge Samuel H. West pronounced sentence on them and five others who had pleaded guilty previously. The jury deliberated two and a half hours.

Accepted Money
A $2500 fine also was placed against Potts who was accused of accepting "protection" money from illegal liquor interests. Judge West said the case was "the most outrageous case of official corruption ever called to my attention."

Others convicted were J. J. Graham, Pat Moran and William Hatcher, former Summit county officers; Joseph Davis and Tony Straga, both of Akron. Graham and Moran were sentenced to 18 months imprisonment and fines of $500; Hatcher to 15 months; Davis a year and a day, and Straga was remanded to county jail pending hearing on a motion for new trial.

Those who had pleaded guilty were sentenced as follows: Ralph Palumbo and Ralph Nicastor, a year and a day; Steve Bartok, Fred Thomas and Henry Schoff, eight months.

Those acquitted because of lack of sufficient evidence against them were Robert Thomas, Henry Haynes and George Farris. As he sentenced Potts, Judge West said:

"I am sorry, but in your case I must pronounce the maximum sentence. You were responsible as the sheriff of Summit-co.

Plunging into the flood, he rescued every child, one after another. Then, wet to the skin and bleeding from cuts and bruises, he retrieved his letters and went on his way.

NATION MOURNS KIPLING DEATH

Noted Writer to Be Cremated, His Expressed Desire

LONDON, Jan. 18.—(UP)—Messages of condolence on the death of Rudyard Kipling poured into London today from all over the empire he loved, and of whose real nature he first made many Britons conscious.

The body of the poet-novelist-historian was taken this morning from the bed in Middlesex hospital where he died to the hospital chapel.

It was said authoritatively that it would be cremated in deference to his own wish. Mrs. Kipling, it was said, decided to observe his desire after consulting Dr. A. E. Webb-Johnson, Kipling's chief surgeon, this morning.

Kipling's body lay before the altar of the hospital chapel, between the choir stalls. Friends believed that his ashes might be honored with burial in Westminster Abbey in belated official recognition of his position as voice of an empire, whose cadences marched round the world to the rhythm of the feet of his immortal British Tommy.

Kipling died at 12:10 a. m. today. His widow, the former Caroline Starr Balestier of Vermont, held his hand. Beside her was their daughter, Mrs. Elsie Bambridge.

In the nature of a return engagement for Duchin and his band. At one time, they supported the original Fire Chief, Ed Wynn, in his programs of mad-cap hilarity; then, last summer, they carried the program along with a series of nationwide Eddy Duchin auditions.

As a piano soloist, Eddy has perfected an inimitable style with unusual effect; his right hand booms through the bass notes with the melody, his left hand—crossed over—harmonizes in the higher octaves.

OUR DEBATERS (An Editorial)

Circleville high school should be proud of its debating team and their coach. They have been working most diligently, they are competent, and they are "going places"; and where they go they carry with them the Red and Black.

None the less proud should we be of the two alternates. It is one thing to work hard for the honor that may be involved; it is altogether another thing to work hard only to have others reap the reward. Yet this is what our alternates, for the honor of their school, have been doing.

It has been a number of years since Circleville high has been represented by a debating team. To a high degree the values to be derived from such an activity can be carried over to latter life. In fact it is doubtful whether in this important respect any activity at C. H. S., with the exception of our musical organizations, can vie with debating.

For this reason debating is important. It would be a fine thing if the interest growing out of the 1936 series of inter-scholastic debates should result in the formation of a debating club at C. H. S.

There will be in this year's series a total of five debates in which Circleville will participate. Of these only one will be local, the one with North on Monday. The subject chosen by the Ohio debating league is a timely one. Circleville citizens are cordially invited to attend.

We pupils and teachers owe to our team our enthusiastic backing! Victory to them and us is not less in importance to victory on field or track.

Many of the juniors received their class rings for Christmas presents although several have not yet been claimed.

Compliments on the beauty and distinctiveness of the rings have been received on all hands and every one is well pleased.

More of the rub rings were purchased than those of the onyx by both boys and girls.

INTRAMURAL BASKETBALL

In a point-for-point battle Wednesday evening the seniors defeated the juniors in the first game of the intramural basketball season by a score of ten to nine.

The score of this closely contested battle was seven to four in favor of the juniors at the end of the first half.

Mr. Cress and Mr. Day are the coaches of the Junior and Senior teams respectively.

The tournament will be resumed next week.

HANDICRAFTERS MEET

The Sr. Girl Reserve Handicraft Group number one held its first meeting at the home of Jean Cryder on Wednesday evening.

It was decided that the articles which are made in the club will be sold, the profit being used for general expenses.

Most of the girls are knitting purses.

STRING CLASS TO BE FORMED ON JAN. 24

A violin class is to be organized at the high school on Friday, January 24.

Students from grades six to twelve inclusive who have some natural musical talent are eligible to join this class, which is to be directed by Mr. Zaenglein.

The purpose of this class is to provide talent for the High School orchestra and other musical organizations of the city. It also to encourage solo and ensemble playing.

Practices will be held every Friday after school in the High School building.

The class instruction is to be given free. Each pupil must furnish his own instrument with the exception of the string bass, which will be furnished by the school.

Instruments needed in this class are the violin, viola, cello, and string bass.

COLLEGIANS TAKE PART IN INTERESTING DEBATE

A scheduled interscholastic debate between the women's debate teams of Ohio Wesleyan and Ohio University was presented to the high school in an assembly Thursday afternoon.

The subject of this debate was resolved: The United States should uphold the League of Nations.

Ohio Wesleyan, who upheld the negative side of the question, was represented by Miss Heistand, Miss Brook, and Miss Crawford.

The members of Ohio University's negative team were Miss Wilson, Miss Matheny, and Miss Blackburn.

Prof. Staats, of Ohio University, served as the chairman.

E. M. S. PLANNING TOUR

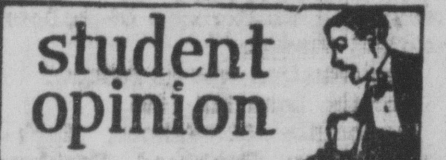

At the second meeting of the E. M. S. club held at the home of Ann Denman Tuesday evening the "Honorary English" made plans for their annual educational tour.

A committee comprised of Matilda Davis, chairman; Wahnta Barnhart, Dorothy Beatty, and Ruth Robinson was appointed by the president to make the necessary arrangements for the trip.

Because of the adoption of the letter system in grading, an average of 3.5 was approved as the minimum for entrance into the English club.

After several reports on short stories were given by Dorothy Beatty and Ruby Chalfin a light lunch was served.

The next meeting will be held in three weeks at the home of Wahnta Barnhart.

What type of Assembly program do you consider the most interesting?

Matilda Davis, Senior:
I like variety, something similar to the program presented earlier in the year by the Stodge Club. Music, comedy, and a little gossip make an interesting well rounded program which, I believe, proves interesting to every one.

Dick Plum, Senior:

I like Assembly programs which have humor and originality are my choice. After seeing an original program with quite a bit of humor, your studies following this program seem to be easier and not quite so dry. Therefore the more humor and originality the better.

Jean Lucas, Junior:

A student-sponsored program seems to me the best because it has more variety and shows the different talents the students have who take part. It also holds the attention of the audience better.

Robert Denney, Junior:
Musical Assembly programs are the most interesting because they furnish enjoyment throughout the program. There aren't any dull moments such as there are in some speeches. All the students like music and it takes their minds from their studies.

Marjorie Leach, Sophomore:
Personally, I think some kind of a musical or a humorous program is the most interesting because it is not monotonous and is very enjoyable.

Erma Kuhn, Sophomore:

An example of what I consider and interesting chapel program is a pep meeting when everybody is in the mood to yell or do whatever he is asked to do by the cheer leaders. Music of almost any sort is a big help along with a chapel program.

Gail Dauenhauer, Freshman:
I think speakers are most interesting for chapel programs, especially those who make travel their subject. What is school for? It is to learn something. You can get plenty of amusement outside of school at shows, etc. So instead of the merriest programs lets have more speakers.

At the association meeting in February reports will be given of the pastor's convention to be held in Columbus the first week in February.

BISHOP HOBSON LEADS CHURCH FORWARD MOVE

CINCINNATI — The Episcopal Church is to use sound movies in its Forward Movement.

The Rt. Rev. Henry W. Hobson, D.D., Bishop of Southern Ohio and chairman of the national Forward Movement Commission of the Church, is planning to make this possible on a diocesan scale this year, and a national scale next year.

There is no reason why the church should remain in the horse-and-buggy stage of using lantern slides and such primitive methods when it has at its disposal such a great and effective force as the sound-on-film movie, Bishop Hobson said.

Plans for sound movies in the Church and other progressive moves are to be discussed by Bishop Hobson in his address to the Southern Ohio diocesan convention which meets January 21st and 22 in the Church of the Advent, Walnut Hills, Cincinnati.

The Clergy and delegates from each parish and mission in Southern Ohio are expected to attend the convention.

Bishop Hobson announced that he was planning to raise sufficient funds to start the work on an experimental scale in his diocese this year, with the intention of broadening it to a national and possibly international scope next year.

Films would be made of prominent speakers, and through portable sound movie projectors, the members of small parishes, who otherwise would be denied the opportunity of hearing the speaker, could hear the addresses.

Pictures could be made of parochial or diocesan institutions, of hospitals, orphanages, schools, missionary projects, that all the Church members might be acquainted with the work being done through the Church, that missions might be personalized.

HOLLAND STEERS LIBERAL COURSE IN ALL POLITICS

AMSTERDAM—As usual, Holland steered a liberal course in both internal and international politics during 1935.

Outstanding among its international activities was its strict adherence to the policies of the League of Nations. Although Holland steadfastly has refused before and after 1914 to be drawn into any international entanglement that did not have an idealistic aim, it made it clear that it believed in law and order.

Holland was one of the countries which sent military forces into the Saar to maintain during the plebiscite. It readily joined with other nations imposing economic sanctions against Italy in the Ethiopian dispute.

There was and still is a great deal of anxiety in Holland concerning Japan's intentions in the Netherlands Indies territory. Japanese inroads in the business and financial domains of the Dutch East Indies, many here fear, may lead to a more serious form of domination. Because of this fear, plans have been drawn for strengthening Holland's defenses both at home and abroad.

At home, Queen Wilhelmina still retains the affections and loyalty of her subjects. This was particularly demonstrated during her illness at the beginning of 1935.

Jesus Prepares for His Work

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Scripture—Luke 3:1-4:13

By the Rev. Alvin E. Bell And Alfred J. Buescher

The way of Jesus' ministry was prepared by John the Baptist. He preached boldly to great multitudes in the wilderness, urging them to repent of sin and live Godly lives. He even denounced King Herod for his sin.

After a time Jesus came to John to be baptized, not because he needed to repent, but to identify himself with sinners and to be anointed and inaugurated to be the Messiah and Saviour of sinners.

After his baptism God led Jesus into the wilderness to be tested by the evil one. Jesus was hungry and Satan tempted him to change stones into bread to prove he was God's Son.

Jesus yielded to none of these temptations. He refused Satan's plan of making himself king through some easy and showy way. So Jesus was tempted as we are, but without sin.

"BRASS TACKS" ON THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for Jan. 19 is Luke 3:1-4:13, the Golden Text being Luke 4:8, "Thou shalt worship the Lord thy God and him only shalt thou serve.")

By DR. ALVIN E. BELL

JESUS' preparation for his ministry goes back of today's lesson, through all those 30 silent years, to which God gave approval when he said of Jesus, "This is my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased."

The Preparation of John

John the Baptist, whose ministry was prophesied in the Old Testament prophets, was chosen of God to go before our Lord and prepare for him the King's highway into the hearts of men. The keynote of his ministry and message was repentance of sin which he sounded as fearlessly in the ears of the wicked King Herod as in those of the publicans and people: "Prepare ye the way of the Lord, make his paths straight."

Bring forth fruits worthy of repentance." John's ministry was an incomplete ministry preparatory to a greater. John was but the voice, Jesus, the Word; John the way preparer, Jesus the Way; John baptized with water, Jesus with the Holy Spirit; John's was a baptism unto repentance, Christ's unto regeneration; John must decrease, Christ must increase.

The Preparation of Baptism.—BF At Jesus' thirtieth year he came to John for baptism, not that he needed it for repentance or forgiveness, but to identify himself with sinful humanity and also for his official inauguration as the Lord's anointed Messiah and promised Saviour. It became the occasion for the Father's attestation of Christ's sinlessness and fitness for this high Messiahship. "Thou art my beloved Son; in thee I am well pleased." So the Father approved our Saviour and sent the Holy Ghost in bodily form upon him as a dove.

The Preparation of Temptation

Immediately following the baptism, anointing and heavenly attestation of Jesus he was led by the Spirit into the wilderness to be tempted of the devil. This "new model" in humanity must be thoroughly tested before being offered to the public. For 40 days that testing was continued before it came to its climax in the three temptations here recorded, which represent all the tempter had for Christ or has for us. The first temptation was in the realm of bodily passions and aimed at putting man on the level of the animal that lives to eat. "If thou art the Son of God, command this stone that it become bread." To this Jesus replied, "It is written, Man shall not live by bread alone." Man is more than animal; he has a spiritual nature that nothing material can satisfy.

The second temptation, "All this power I give thee, and the glory of it . . . If thou therefore wilt worship me, all shall be thine" represents every temptation to compromise with evil on the theory that the end justifies the means. "Thou shalt worship the Lord thy God, and him only shalt thou serve." God needs no help from evil; he permits no compromise or division of allegiance.

The third temptation, "Cast thyself down" represents every spiritual temptation in the realm of false religion, the substitution of the spectacular for the spiritual. "Thou shalt not tempt the Lord thy God." Keep your eye on the cross, not on the crowd. Thus Christ was "tempted in all points like as we are, yet without sin."

COAST-TO-COAST FREIGHT LINES

RAILROADS of the country, struggling desperately for survival, are given another cause for concern in the reports on the initial experiments of a motor truck service established to enter the long-haul field of transportation service.

The first trips of the new line have been eminently successful. A train of motor trucks and trailers went from Chicago to Los Angeles in four and a half days with a pay load, which reduces by forty-six hours the best railroad freight schedule for the run. The train returned from Los Angeles to New York with another pay load, beating the best railroad freight schedule by seventy-two hours.

The maximum speed was thirty-five miles per hour. Drivers worked twenty-five hours at a stretch and slept six hours in a trailer. Although the two trips were successful beyond anticipation, reports indicate that they were productive of valuable lessons which will be utilized for the improvement of the service.

Successful operation of this new motor freight line must necessarily be disturbing to the railroad industry, which has suffered seriously reverses during recent years. The long haul has been its principal remaining source of strength and inroads upon this business will constitute a serious obstacle in the way of the roads' recovery.

But the people as a whole, as well as the shippers, have an interest in the development of this new phase of transportation. The right of way which these truck trains will use, often creating conditions of serious congestion, is the highway system of the country, built and maintained by taxpayers' money, not, as in the case of the railroad, by private capital.

This condition is unfair to railroads, by reason of the fact that competitors are given this great economic advantage, and also to the taxpayers generally, who should not be called upon to build and maintain right of ways for the benefit of private interests.

Ethiopia's soldiers are conducting their war along economical lines. Instead of opening up a barrage with six-inch guns they merely roll a few rocks down over a hill.

Bishop Cannon says prohibition will be back again in 10 years. Hijacking, bootlegging, speakeasy proprietorship and all the rest of the paraphernalia?

WORLD AT A GLANCE

Republican leaders are considering the possibility that wet-and-dry sentiment will weigh appreciably in deciding votes at next November's election.

And Democratic leaders are considering the possibility that Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt's personality will be an issue of some consequence to a certain class of voters. It seems like a ridiculous idea, but not a few political diagnosticians surmise that womanhood, to no small extent, will cast its ballots for or against the "first lady" rather than for or against her husband.

Prohibition will not be mentioned at the Republican convention, nor will Mrs. Roosevelt's personality be referred to at the Democratic gathering. It is on election day that the respective leaderships believe the divergent trends—dry versus wet; pro-Mrs. Roosevelt and contra-Mrs. Roosevelt—may manifest themselves. Of course they will be secondary to the pro and "anti" New deal trends, but, in the event of a close New Deal fight, strategists are of the opinion that they perhaps will have quite a bit of significance.

LONDON HELPED

Governor Landon's scouts, questioning Washington politicians concerning their candidate's chances, have asked, again and again, "Will it be in Alf's favor or contrariwise that he is a son of the arid state of Kansas?"

Most prognosticators appear to believe that his commonwealth's dryness will help more than it will hurt the sunflower realm's governor.

They reason thusly: "Wets will feel that prohibition repeal is too young to be reversed with in the administration of a single president—even a two-term. Therefore, if they are inclined to vote for him, they will vote for him anyway. But dries, still burning with resentment at repeal with President Roosevelt's sanction (the states did the ratifying but Roosevelt will be blamed by ardent prohibitionists) are likely to rally to a dry national candidate."

Senator Borah's dry record also is spoken of, but Borah's record is so miscellaneous that he doesn't stand out so sharply as a dry as does Landon, the Kansan.

FDR EXPECTED TO RE-APPOINT FOUR MEMBERS OF FEDERAL RESERVE BOARD

WASHINGTON—Inside word is that four members of the present Federal Reserve Board will be re-named by the President to the new Board that becomes operative February 1. They are Governor Marriner S. Eccles, who will head the new body, plus Charles S. Hamlin and Adolph C. Miller, personal friends of the President who have been on the Board since its creation in 1914; and M. S. Szymzak, the youngest member. Heading the list of new men to be appointed is Joseph A. Broderick, former New York State Superintendent of Banks . . . J. P. Morgans attends all hearings of the Senate munitions investigation attired in a wing collar, specially made for him in England. On the small finger of his left hand the international banker wears a large signet ring and hanging from his vest a heavy gold chain, both inherited from his father. Morgan smokes his frequent cigars in a short ivory holder embellished with a broad gold band.

Model of understatement by Senator John H. Bankhead: "I have come to the well-considered judgment that the Bankhead cotton act (of which he is the author) will be held unconstitutional by the Supreme Court." In his majority decision banning the AAA Justice Roberts characterized the Bankhead law as an example of illegal legislation. . . . Reports have reached Washington that the Southern Tenant Farmers Union, which has been waging a fierce battle to gain recognition from plantation owners, has become so significant politically that Harry Malcolm, Deputy State Labor Commissioner of Arkansas, addressed its recent second annual convention in Little Rock, Ark. . . . Southern California's Democratic Representative, Charles J. Colden, newly-appointed chairman of the House Committee for the Disposition of Executive Papers, has named his daughter to the $2,700-a-year post as secretary of the body.

JUDICIAL CAUTION

Presidential advisers are warning Roosevelt to be extremely careful about all appointments to the judiciary, even in the lower courts. At present a vacancy exists in the Federal judiciary in New York State, and Governor Lehman has selected Saul S. Streit, a New York Assemblyman unknown outside the state and of untested ability. Usually Lehman's recommendation is as good as gold with his friend Roosevelt, but this time there may be opposition. . . . Capitol policemen on night shifts spend their time trapping rats in the sub-basement vault once used as the first tomb of George Washington . . . PWA theatrical projects are putting on a series of "Living Newspapers" in which unemployed newspaper men and actors act out the news. Unemployed circus clowns are being used to act cartoons. One of the first news stories being performed is on the Ethiopian situation. . . . Bachelor Justice McReynolds, who seldom speaks to some of his colleagues on the Supreme Court, hates tobacco smoke. Ladies attending his famous Sunday morning breakfasts are not permitted to light cigarettes.

MURDER UPSTAIRS

By ADAM BLISS

CHAPTER 48

WHILE I REREAD Della's letter. I noticed that her mother's eyes were fastened on my face.

"Queer, don't you think?"

"Well, Miss Cambridge—" I wanted to say what poor Della had said in her letter, that Miss Cambridge was the prying kind, but I didn't. I stopped right there.

"It may be nothing," Mrs. Randall said, "but I thought you ought to see it. Della thought it was funny or she wouldn't have said so. I got all about it until I got on the train this morning, and started to go over her letters. You don't think that Miss Cambridge—"

"Killed Della? I don't," Mrs. Randall. However, the suggestion made me uneasy. I didn't like the idea of Marcella Cambridge investigating the rooms in the house. If she had gone into Della's room—Della, a servant—she must have entered the other rooms in the house. My room, too, for I'd never left it locked until Tuesday afternoon. Lucy's room. The shoes were an excuse, probably the first thing Miss Cambridge thought of because she was in the closet when Della came in. The gift the next day was a magnificent one, more so than she had ever made to any of my servants before. True, Miss Cambridge did give clothes to the girls now and then, but never had she given four pairs of practically new shoes at one time. Was it a bribe?

But it was an awful thing to even think that she might have killed the girl, simply because she had snooped about the room. I couldn't believe that of Miss Cambridge.

"Anything more in the other letters?" I asked the woman.

"Only about people in the house."

I ran through some of the other letters, but they were just what Mrs. Randall had said, gossip, homey letters about everyone in the house, all of them more or less the same. One thing that struck me as significant was that in the letters I read "here was no mention at all of Mr. Hemingway." I asked Mrs. Randall if Della ever wrote about him, and she said she hadn't. That he had only been mentioned in one of the first letters, never since then. So Della wasn't even confiding to her mother her love for Martin Hemingway!

The letter which referred to Miss Cambridge I gave to Sergeant Ross to take to Lieutenant Larrabee. He would want to see it. Then, after Mrs. Randall had gone, I went into the kitchen. There was a chance that Della had told Grace about Miss Cambridge's visit to her room.

It turned out that she had, although Grace had almost forgotten the incident.

"We talked about it at the time," Grace said, "that next morning before Miss Cambridge brought down the shoes. I told Della not to worry because nothing was looking over what she had. I'd forgotten until now."

"Then Miss Cambridge brought her shoes and Della was pleased to death. She didn't have much, poor child, and she was so grateful when anyone did anything for her. Maybe Miss Cambridge was looking to see what size shoes Della wore," and said that she wasn't. Mrs. Starbuck for a walk, she was sure she went had been in her room. Not that there was anything there, but she didn't like the idea of people looking through her things. She was positive because the book she had been reading was lying face down on the chaise longue when she went out, and when she came back, it was gone. Her meaning was perfectly apparent. She was referring to the money I was to get from his estate, of course.

"Well—" I said weakly. I hadn't intended to go. There would be porters to face as I got into a cab, more reporters probably at the undertaking parlors. I didn't think I could stand it. I had already been through so much.

"You should go," she urged. "It won't look right if you don't. Mrs. Penny." Her gloves were on and closed, but in the same place. Looks like Miss Cambridge, doesn't it?"

I nodded. Marcella Cambridge can't bear to see a book turned face down any place. More than once when she had come in to see me and I had put a book down that careless way while I talked with her, she had thrust a book mark in it, closed it properly. But then, Miss Cambridge is that way.

"Did she ever come in your room?" I inquired.

"I don't think so. Never caught her anyway. I always lock my room when I come downstairs. I have letters around I don't want anyone to see—"

I knew what Grace meant. The letters from prison.

Miss Cambridge walked into the kitchen fully dressed, her best hat on and her seal coat which had been new the first year she came to me, and which still looked as if it never had been worn more than a month. She was drawing on a pair of black suede gloves.

"Going out?" I marveled again at the care she took of her coat. She looked very smart when she was dressed for the street.

"Going out? Of course, I'm going to Mr. Darrin's funeral. And it seems, Mrs. Penny, that I'm the only person in the house who is going. I've asked everybody except Mrs. Starbuck and she's asleep. Even Mrs. Upham refused to go. I must say that after I have sat at the table with Mr. Darrin for five years, lived in the same house with him for five years, it's the only decent thing I can do for him. I should think you'd want to go, too, under the circumstances."

Her meaning was perfectly apparent. She was referring to the money I was to get from his estate, of course.

"Well—" I said weakly. I hadn't intended to go. There would be porters to face as I got into a cab, more reporters probably at the undertaking parlors. I didn't think I could stand it. I had already been through so much.

"You should go," she urged. "It won't look right if you don't. Mrs. Penny." Her gloves were on and she smoothed them until there wasn't a wrinkle in them.

"I'll wait. We have plenty of time."

As I hurried up the back steps, I knew that I wasn't going to the funeral to see a burial service read over Andrew Darrin. I was going because afterwards, or before, if I could, I wanted to call Dr. Rademacher and talk to him without interference. That was why I was going. When I was ready, I stopped in Janet's room. She was lying down, but she answered my knock.

She listened quietly to what I had to say about the telegram Larrabee had snatched me, her spirits drooping her eyes dull.

"I'm going to the funeral now, Janet, and if you want me to—"

"I'll wait. We have plenty of time."

"It's too dangerous, Mrs. Penny. Thanks, but we'll let it wait. He won't write if he's read the papers, and I know he has. As long as he doesn't write to me it's all right. New York is a big place—and he's careful not to send his letters all from the same postoffice."

She hadn't told me before that he was in New York, but Larrabee had. He had the information from Miss Cambridge. I wanted to do something for her but Miss Cambridge was waiting and impatient. When I got downstairs the taxi she had called was hurried out, but that didn't prevent three reporters from firing questions at us, pell-mell, as we got into the car, and a photographer from snapping our pictures.

As I pulled down the back shade I noticed that another car was following our cab, and that there were two men in the back seat.

"Detectives, I suppose," Miss Cambridge said, dryly, as she settled herself.

She was right. One man's face was familiar to me. I had seen him around the house. The other I hadn't seen before. I wondered why there were two of them and whether, if after all his flattery and disarming confidences, King Larrabee suspected me as much as he did everyone else in the house.

Poems That Live

"THIS WORLD IS ALL A FLEETING SHOW"

This world is all a fleeting show, For man illusion given;

The smiles of joy, the tears of woe, Deceitful shine, deceitful flow—

There's nothing true but Heaven!

And false the light on glory's plume, As fading hues of even;

And love, and hope, and beauty's bloom Are blossoms gathered for the tomb—

There's nothing bright but Heaven!

And fancy's flash and season's way Serve but to light the troubled way—

There's nothing calm but Heaven.

DIET AND HEALTH

What Minerals Are Needed In the Healthful Diet?

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

WE SAW in our chemical analysis of the body of a man of 150 pounds that about 7 1/2 pounds were various kinds of salts containing the elements iron, calcium, phosphorus, sodium, chlorine, sodium, iodine, magnesium and minute amounts of copper, manganese, zinc, boron, silicon. About 20 to 30 grams of these mineral salts are lost by the body daily. A natural diet must, therefore, replace this loss.

An average American diet for an average man contains the following amounts of these chemicals per day:

Calcium 1.3 grams
Magnesium7 grams
Potassium 6.5 grams
Sodium 4.6 grams
Phosphorus 2.8 grams
Chlorine 5.8 grams
Sulfur 2.8 grams
Iron08 grams

Under ordinary circumstances, replacement of the mineral salts without the necessity of worrying about it. In fact, under ordinary circumstances, our diet contains much more of certain salts than is absolutely necessary.

For instance, we probably take in about 20 grams of sodium chloride (common salt) a day. This is equivalent to a heaping tablespoon. Not all of this, of course, is taken as salt per se. There is sodium chloride in nearly all of our foods—milk, bread, meats, vegetables, and a good deal is added in the process of cooking. We could get along on probably two grams of sodium chloride a day.

The calcium content in an average diet is from 50 to 100 per cent above the minimum needs. The only element that appears to be likely to range around minimum standards is phosphorus. Sherman is of the opinion that the average American dietary is closer to the lowest phosphorus requirement than is always safe, and suggests that perhaps some cases of malnutrition are due to insufficiency of phosphorus.

Foods which contain a large amount of phosphorus are egg yolk, lean beef, cheese, wheat, beans, nuts. Sulfur is closely linked to protein and especially muscle metabolism, and the nitrogen and sulfur excretion, the body is closely paralleled, which means that sulfur leaves the body mostly in some form of protein combination. Likewise the greater part of sulfur enters the body in organic combinations, chiefly as proteins. Beef, eggs, milk, bread, oatmeal, beans, peas and potatoes contain good amounts of sulfur.

Iron does not leave the body in very large quantities. The iron in combination in the body is broken down (i.e., destruction of red blood cells) but is re-absorbed and used again to build new cells. Thus only in the presence of hemorrhage or rapid growth is it necessary for the diet to contain a large amount of iron. In infants this has been found somewhat of a problem, because milk is quite deficient in iron, and infants on an exclusive milk diet may suffer from anemia in consequence.

The following table will give a comparative idea of the amounts of iron in common foodstuffs. Note the comparatively small amount in milk.

	Milligrams per 100 grams
Beef 3.8
Eggs 3.8
Egg yolk 8
Milk24
Oatmeal 3.8
Bread 5
Beans 7
Spinach 3.6

"Good morning, sir," he said ingratiatingly. "Much luggage, sir?"

"Three bags," replied the young man, climbing out.

Three short blasts on a whistle brought three bell boys racing through the revolving doors, and the luggage was solemnly carried in. The attendant piloted the arrivals to the door, where the head porter was bowing abjectly.

"This way, sir,"

Scurrying footmen paused respectfully to allow the guest unimpeded passage to the reception office.

Wall Street Hails New Investment Giant Who Snatched Bargains in Depression

NEW YORK—Wall Street is hailing a new leader these days. He is Floyd Bostwick Odium, spectacled, lean-jawed president and presiding genius of Atlas corporation, rated as America's largest and fastest growing investment holding concern.

Odium is nicknamed "Fifty Per Cent" by baffled rivals because he buys up companies (often rivals) at 50 cents on the dollar. He has boomed Atlas from a modest $51,000 in 1923 to a $110,000,000 stock octopus whose tentacles reach out to such varied businesses as the operation of Mississippi river barge lines, the selling of frozen fruit, the control of Madison Square Garden, and the management of film studios, hotels and department stores.

Absorbs Company After Company Under Odium's watchful financial eye, Atlas, since the depression curtain fell on the golden days of Wall Street prosperity in 1930, has absorbed one holding company after another. In several cases the companies have been even larger than itself.

And it has all been because Odium continued cautiously bullish when stock prices were cracking around him, and the exchange became a mad house. Shares were selling for less than the actual value of the physical assets back of them.

Odium saw his opportunity. Because "Fifty Per Cent" Odium thought stock prices were fantastically high in the summer of 1929, he changed Atlas' $14,000,000 assets into liquid cash and short-term loans. It took courage, critics point out, for anyone to be a bear then, but Odium carried the day by sheer economic logic.

Rides the Storm

The catastrophe struck a few months later, and while gigantic corporate rivals tottered and tumbled into receivership and bankruptcy, Atlas corporation, with Odium's hand at the helm, sailed through the economic storm, holding on to its cash and waiting for the first sign of letup in Wall Street. It soon came.

Odium's plan was this: To absorb holding companies or investment trusts with valuable assets, liquidating immediately whatever could be sold, and hanging on to the remainder until prices should rise and Atlas' investments would be secured. Because many of these purchases brought with them physical control over factories, farms and transportation concerns, Atlas had to take over their operation, too.

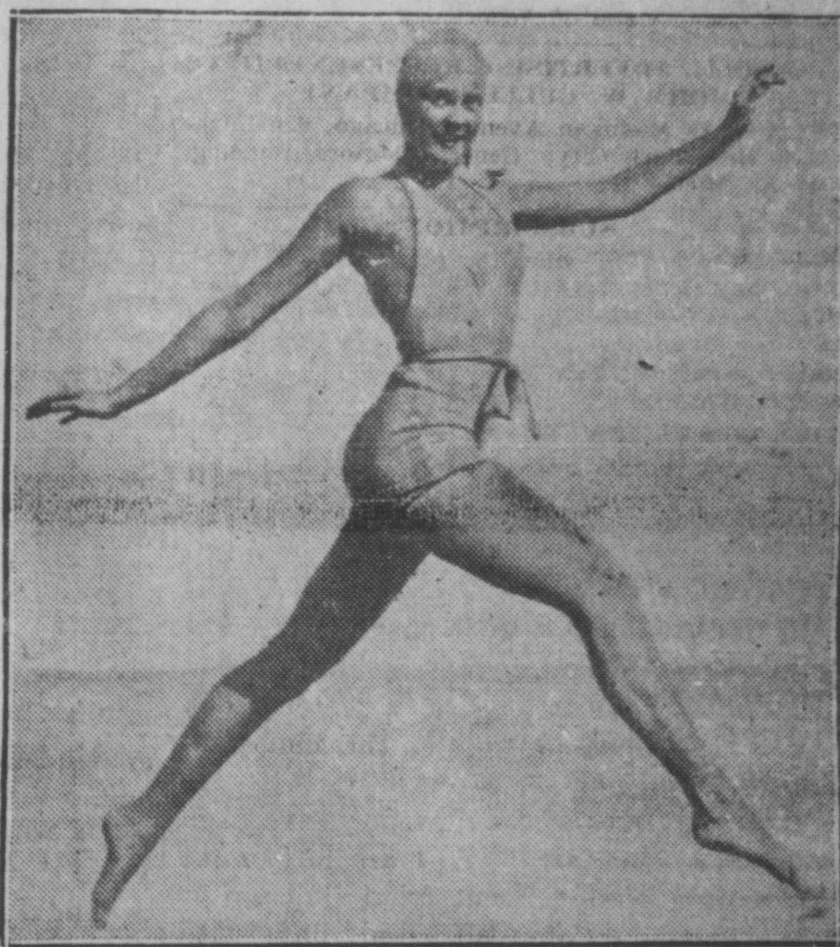

Thus Odium found himself bossing not only paper properties, but men and machines likewise, a unique job, perhaps the first instance of this for the head of an investment company in Wall Street's memory.

Odium's Creed

Odium has brought new ideas into Wall Street since the depression. For one, he has always been bullish on the economic prosperity of the United States. And to his stockholders, who regard him with no little awe, Odium has preached the gospel of slow but gradual recovery, even while most of his rivals saw only ruin for years to come.

In 1931 Odium bought up 12 rivals, including the $32,000,000 Chatham Phoenix Allied corporation, with total net assets of $75,000,000. For other investment giants like Goldman Sachs Trading, Shenandoah, and Blue Ridge Securities, Odium waited until this "50 cents on the dollar" chance arrived and then he pounced. Often an owner, after haggling with Odium while the latter sat with his feet atop the desk apparently indifferent, would learn that he was trying to sell something Odium had already purchased quietly in the open market.

Under Odium, Atlas is a jack of all trades, the strangest investment trust ever listed on the exchange. Under his stewardship one of the largest bus companies in the country has been put back on its feet. He keeps a wary eye on barge lines hauling freight on the Ohio and Mississippi rivers between Cincinnati, St. Louis and New Orleans. In California, Odium has the twin tasks of seeing that a 1,300-acre fruit ranch and Atlas' other investments in several of the largest movie studios run smoothly, so that dividends can continue.

All Sorts of Food, Too

Hamburgers, sausages and strawberries are other of "Fifty Per Cent's" pet hobbies, mostly because Atlas owns control of several frozen food factories, and they continue to pile up good profits.

And on the recreation side, Odium tries to have Madison Square Garden always filled ever since Atlas bought a sizeable part of New York's most famous sport center.

On the conservative side, Atlas is interested in a San Francisco bank, third largest institution west of Chicago. And other subdivisions of Atlas portfolio include potent public utility properties. Here, however, Odium can supervise almost with his eyes shut, they say.

He got his first taste of Wall Street and the lure of the ticker tape in public utilities. It all began when Odium, graduating from Colorado university law school and winning the highest bar exam marks, found himself in Salt Lake City in 1914, jobless but enterprising.

Minister's Son

Son of a Methodist minister, Odium, before he had reached 21, had picked fruit, dug ditches, piled slabs in a lumber yard, worked in truck gardens, clothing stores, sold maps, substituted in libraries, run rooming houses, edited a college newspaper and ridden an ostrich in a fair ground race. He was rated, fairly good at all of them, even though a horse won the race with the ostrich.

In Salt Lake City, Odium worked for a public utility company at $50 a month. Gradually Odium learned the intricacies of interlocking corporations. He was good and the company soon sent him to New York, where he became the favorite lawyer of Sidney Z. Mitchell, dynamic and influential public utilities magnate. From 1926 to 1931 Odium traveled frequently abroad, buying up power plants. At the same time, however, he kept a finger in his own pygmy holding company, Atlas. In 1931, when his firm swelled to $53,000,000 in assets, Odium gave Atlas all his time.

His Family

Odium has two sons. He was divorced recently by his wife, Mrs. Hortense McQuarrie Odium, whom he had made adviser of one of Atlas' properties, a fashionable department store in New York.

He likes to model in clay for relaxation, drinks milk and passes frequent summers in his mountain camp near Logan, Utah.

TIGERS IN 26-22 CBL MARGIN OVER BEXLEY'S OUTFIT

Styers and Jenkins Do Most of Scoring as Suburban Team is Turned Back

Jack Landrum's Tigers played a steady game of basketball Friday evening and returned to the victory column after a little vacation. Bexley was the victim, 26-22, the game being played on the east Columbus court.

In other Central Buckeye league games:

Delaware, 24; Grandview, 22.

Marysville, 24; Westerville, 16.

The Tigers took a 9-6 lead at the first period but lost that margin early in the second quarter. At one time Bexley led 11-9 but at half-time the Red and Black was again on the long end by spurring to an 18-12 lead.

Five points separated the teams at the three-quarter pole, 22-17.

John Jenkins, who has been out with an infected foot, was in the lineup and played his usual good game. He tallied seven points and did a lot of the passing that gave his teammates scores. He will not be in tonight's game against Amanda, Coach Landrum intending to permit him as much rest as possible before the Grandview game.

Chuck Styers snapped out of it and hit for 10 points, the first time this year he has scored what was expected of him.

Bailey, Bexley captain, was high man in the game with 12 but he shot the ball toward the basket every time he obtained the ball.

The Tiger reserves took it on the chin, 34-9.

Bill Hunt and Charlie Bonner, Ohio State and Ohio university grads, respectively, were the officials.

STATE SENDS SHOTGUN SHELLS FOR CROW WAR

H. E. Betz, president of the Pickaway Farmer's and Sportsman's association, announced the receipt of a carton of 5500 shotgun shells Friday morning from the state Department of Conservation, for use on Pickaway-co crows and hawks.

The rules of the department require 20 crows or four hawks be killed with each box of 25 shells. Crow feet are to be saved and heads of the hawks kept by the hunters to show their scores.

Local sportsmen plan to use the shells largely at crow roosts. Night hunting parties are planned and stuffed owls, hawks or chickens will be used near the roost for daytime shooting.

About THIS and THAT In Many Sports

Tiger's Play Tonight

Victorious over Bexley, the Tigers take on another Central Buckeye foe, Grandview in the CAC gym Tuesday evening—Grandview lost to Delaware last night and, with the exception of Forrest, fast forward, doesn't seem to have a whole lot—Tonight the Tigers meet Amanda in the local gym, following a prelim scheduled for 7:30 * * *

Steinbrook's Case

"The Case of Henry Steinbrook" can be the title for the following yarn—Steinbrook, as most county court fans know, has starred with Ashville, this being his third year—He is now ineligible because he attended the Greenfield high school more than 15 days in his sophomore year—He became ineligible last Monday, so all games played by Ashville are official—It was just lucky that Ashville school authorities learned about the youth in time to keep him out of the New Holland game—A report in New Holland that all Ashville's games were to be thrown out because of Steinbrook, reached the ears of Ashville residents an inquiry opened * * *

Fault of Record

The athlete was not to blame—He received his freshman credits at Greenfield, then entered the sophomore year, but illness, a death in the family, and removal to Ashville permitted him to attend his second year of school for only a short time—He took no examinations, and received no credits—Greenfield school authorities in forwarding his record to Ashville did not list that he had attended the second year of high school—A pupil must attend any school only 15 days to receive credit for a semester, so he is out—The loss is a blow to Ashville's high hopes for a county title, but Dick (Cutie to you) Hedges played a nice game Friday and Jerry Millar has turned on a little more speed to help out * * *

Scores On Squad

Jim Scoles, ex-Ashville star, is still on the Ohio State freshman squad, despite plenty of cutting—Scoles, always a high scorer in the county, was dropped from the squad, but school officials saw him score 27 points in an outside contest and immediately ordered him back for duty * * *

Countians Victorious

Pickaway-co basketballers at Ohio State defeated Darke-co's team, 33-7, last week—On the local aggregation were Gene Briggs, Tom Kirwin, Ray French, Ralph Dunkel and Floyd Graves—Others getting into the fray were Carl Guick, Mace Brown, Wells Wilson, Bob Mace, and Ross Dodd * * *

Retzlaff Added to List Of Joe Louis's Victims

Big Fellow Kayoed in First Round; Makes Negro Angry by Smacking Blow in Brief Chicago Heavy Go

CHICAGO, Jan. 18.—(UP)—Charley Retzlaff today was a minor item in the amazing saga of Joe Louis and his magic gloves.

Only one day ago the big, raw-boned North Carolina farmer was an important hurdle in Louis' clear path to a million-dollar fight with Max Schmeling and a probable title shot with Jimmy Braddock.

But today the Retzlaff thing was a laugh, and a short one, too. Shorter, even, than the one minute and 25 seconds it took Joseph to list Retzlaff's name with those of Carnera, Levinsky, Baer, Paulino and all the rest.

Knocked Down Twice

Joe dumped Retzlaff twice, the second time for keeps, and today his main worry was that of another soft touch, this time in his home city of Detroit.

They hailed last night's Chicago stadium session as the greatest "if" fight in years. There were "ifs" as to Louis' condition, the possibility of Retzlaff landing a lucky one, and many another weird angle. But not one of the "ifs" stood up. Louis sailed in, took his man almost as soon as he wanted, pocketed some $23,000 and called it a night—and a very brief one at that.

Actually there were but 67 seconds of fighting. Retzlaff was down once for a count of eight, and the kayo toll took up another ten seconds which, subtracted from the official time of 1:25, left 1:07 of mediocre punch-swapping for which 16,500 persons paid $67,500 to witness.

Say this much for Retzlaff: he really did try, but, as Louis said while sitting in his dressing room after the fight, without even one bead of perspiration showing on his cocoa-colored body, "at guy just couldn't take it."

Actually it was Retzlaff who hit the first real blow. He was the first of Louis' last four opponents to have come in rushing, and actually forced Joe into the ropes within the first minute. The North Dakota lad scored a neat right to the head and Louis pulled in his guard. The crowd, breathless for a moment, cheered madly for the puncher who dared to carry the fight to Louis, as none has done during Joe's skyrocket year.

Short Show Over

They saw the answer, too. Louis shot over a right to the body. Retzlaff backed away. Louis raced after him. He fired a blistering right cross to the jaw. Retzlaff sagged down to the floor. At the count of eight he was up again, dazed, wavering, with his guard aloft. Again brown lightning struck. This time it was a whirling left hook which sent Charley reeling. He crumpled onto hands and knees. The referee counted "ten" and the show was over.

FIGURES ON FIASCO

CHICAGO, Jan. 18.—(UP)—Approximate figures on the Louis-Retzlaff fight:

Attendance 16,500
Gross receipts $67,500
Net receipts $56,000
Radio rights $3,000
Movie rights $2,500
Louis' share $23,000
Retzlaff's share $2,800

ASHVILLE QUINT BEATS HOLLAND IN 28-22 GAME

Kauber's Boys Only Unde- fied Team in County; Darby Girls' Slate Clean

Ashville boys and Darby girls remained today as the only unbeaten, untied teams in the county court loop after turning back worthy foes Friday evening. Al Kauber's boys, minus their star guard Henry Steinbrook, knocked off New Holland on the latter court, 28-22, narrowly protecting a wide early lead, and the Darby girls put on the pressure to whip Scioto, 37-13, on the Derby hardwood.

These teams are now favorites for The Herald's trophies.

Ashville and New Holland entered their game with the leadership at stake, neither having tasted a beaten, but the sharpshooting Harrison-twp boys soon settled the issue by caging 14 points in the first period. Chuck Ater's goal was all New Holland could garner in that session.

Gregg, Young Connect

New Holland was using a zone defense in the opening session and the result was that Walter Gregg and Chuck Young were pegging the ball from the sides and corners to hit consistently. No defense can stop a hot team and that is what Ashville was Friday in the early part of the game.

The second period ended 14 to 6. In the third period—which saw Young, who was covering Everett Landman, score his third personal—New Holland outscored the leaders 8 to 7, but didn't manage to cut into the big lead until the final period when eight points were counted against three.

Steinbrook, who has been doing yeoman work for three years for the Ashville team, has been declared ineligible for the remainder of the year. (More about that in "This and That").

Ashville girls surprised by winning, 20-17, with Young, sister of the varsity center, tallying 11 counters.

Pickaway Tallies 52

Pickaway-twp. foe of Ashville next Wednesday evening ran up the biggest score of the year, 52-27, over Salsereek. The Tartan girls gave Pickaway an awful scrap but failed, 17-21.

Monroe's boys and girls enjoyed themselves at Darbyville by taking Muhlenberg in two games. Boys score was 28-24 and the girls, 14-9.

Walnut used its entire squad in its 33-20 victory over Washington while the Walnut girls remained in the running for the tournament by copping, 35-12.

Williamsport's "Rough and ready" took Jackson, 22-13, after a hard fight. The winner led 15-10 at the half. Williamsport girls were also victorious, 16-13.

Scioto won another ball game, this time defeating Darby, last year's tourney champs, 15-10, while the Darby girls turned the tables in the 37-13 fray.

This week's feature game will bring Ashville and Pickaway together Wednesday evening. Ashville faces the task of stopping Rhoades and Anderson, Coach Carl Burger's fleet forwards, while Pickaway has a tough assignment in keeping Gregg, Young and Millar tied up.

BUCKEYE "5" TO MEET IOWA CAGERS TONIGHT

COLUMBUS, Jan. 18.—(UP)—Whether Ohio tState remains as a title possibility or drop out of the championship chase in the Big Ten will be answered here tonight when the Bucks meet Iowa.

With a conference record of two victories and two defeats, a triumph is imperative if Ohio is to retain a chance of sharing in the title.

Iowa has two conference and one defeat. The Hawkeyes downed Illinois by a one point margin and defeated Ohio 25 to 23 in a game a week ago at Iowa City. The quintet's setback came from Wisconsin, a team which the Bucks had humbled easily.

Iowa has a relatively green team, but one which will outsize Ohio considerably.

The Hawkeyes have two veteran forwards in Captain Johnny Barlow and Sid Rensenthal, but the remainder of the team is inexperienced.

Besides the two veteran forwards Iowa will start Jack Drees, six-foot-five-inch center, and Joe Van Ysseldyk and Ken Sussens guards. Van Ysseldyk is six-foot-one and Sussens, five-foot-eleven.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

By E. A. SHEPARD, Famous Bridge Teacher

MASTERING BRIDGE (44) CORRECT technical training makes plain how expensive blind opening leads from tenaces and certain other honor holdings are against trump calls. Common sense informs us that when senior holds the A-Q of a side suit, that there must average to be one case in three when declarer will hold the missing K. If any other player leads senior's suit he will win tricks with both his high honors, but if he leads the suit he makes a present to declarer of a trick. Taking into consideration possible ruffs by declarer or dummy, we find the exact differences to the holder of A-Q, who opens that suit, are 10 cases in the 27 possible different ways whereby the missing honors may be divided among the other three players. These 10 cases in 27 possible different ways K-J-10 may lie, amount to a total of 9 1/2 tricks. Aside from the question of ruffing, one-third the time it means a needless loss of a trick to blindly open any one of these tenaces: A-Q-J-10, A-Q-J, A-Q-10 or A-J-10. It makes a difference of two tricks in nine cases who leads your K-Q-10 or K-J-10 suit, and six times in 27 cases it means a difference who opens your K-J suit. Lacking a better suit of your own to lead, naturally you will make a directed lead of your partner's suit, regardless of the question of what honors you may hold therein. There is a single case where you should open your longest and strongest suit, regardless of the particular honors you may hold therein. This happens when your partner has made an opening bid of no trumps, that second hand has overcalled with a suit. Presumably your partner has some honor strength in each of the plain suits (those not the trump). Your best chance to defeat the adverse call is to hammer declarer with the suit in which you and partner hold the most strength. Here is a case quite possibly different from the above, not making it so certain that you should not mind opening away from your tenace suit. Declarer opened the bidding. Your partner made a 1-No Trump overcall as fourth hand. Declarer rebid his suit and was allowed to play the suit named. Your partner's acts show one or more stops to the run of trumps, with something in the two unbid suits in which you may be weak. The other unbid suit you hold strongly. Quite probably your partner holds little or none of the missing honor strength of your best suit. Probably declarer holds the missing strength, if concentrated, giving you an excellent opportunity to trap declarer later on. In the meanwhile you had better make a blind opening lead of your second best suit, counting on partner also to hold some strength in the suit.

FEDERAL JUDGE TO BE APPOINTED WITHIN FEW DAYS

UNDERWOOD HAS GOOD CHANCE TO WIN U. S. BERTH

Many Leading Ohioans After Hough's Bench; Selection Possible Monday

Announcement is expected within the next few days from Washington D. C. concerning appointment of a federal judge to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Judge Benson W. Hough.

A list of 23 applicants was handed to the department of justice last week by Senator A. Vic Donahey.

It is believed the appointment will be made Monday. Donahey and Senator Robert Bulkley have been conferring over the appointment and are thought to have sifted their selections until three now head the list.

Reports from the nation capital give Congressman Mell G. Underwood a good chance for the appointment. However, a suggestion recently that the Ohio congressional delegation vote its indorsement for the New Lexington man was declined because many of the sons had pledged their support to candidates from their own districts.

The complete list of applicants includes:

Underwood; Judge Charles C. White, Batavia; Judge William Jones, McArthur; Judge N. Craig McBride, Hillsboro; Judge Charles Lemmert, Zanesville; Judge Will P. Stephenson, West Union; Judge F. M. Acton, Lancaster; Judge J. H. Lameck, New Philadelphia; Charles J. Lynch, Bellaire; W. I. Kinsey, Steubenville; A. A. George, Zanesville, Robert N. Wilkin, Dover; James I. Boulger, Robert Touvelle, Forrest F. Smith, Claude Bartlett, James W. Huffman, Stuart B. Bolin and Thomas J. Duffy, all of Columbus and Judges F. Reynolds, C. P. McClelland and Robert Duncan, all of Columbus.

York and their two little girls, the Princesses Elizabeth and Margaret Rose, were at Sandringham House.

They included four possible future sovereigns of England and rulers of one-fourth the world's territory and population, of a continent—Australia—of dominions, colonies and protectorates in every continent, of islands that dot the seven seas.

The succession is the Prince of Wales, the Duke of York, the King's second son, and his daughters—first Elizabeth, nearly ten, then Margaret Rose, who is 5½.

Third Son Is Ill

Other members of the family were expected today, except for the Duke of Gloucester, the third son, who is ill at Buckingham palace in London.

The King contracted a chill after riding about the estate and along nearby roads on his favorite white pony Wednesday. It was announced yesterday morning that he had a slight cold and was remaining indoors as a precaution.

Last night the heart weakness was detected.

Sandringham House was ablaze with lights all night. Even after daybreak every window remained lighted in witness to the anxiety inside.

The Prince of Wales and Duke of York were up early to inquire of the King's condition. The little postoffice of the estate was overwhelmed with telephone inquiries and was unable to answer them for lack of a formal bulletin this morning.

It was not until today that some villagers learned of the King's illness. They did not hear the bulletin, announcing the heart weakness, which shocked the nation when it was broadcast just before midnight last night. Interrupting dance programs. As the King lay ill last night a British Legion post dance was being held in the village hall of Dersingham near the estate.

The villagers stood today on the snow covered roads discussing the illness. A woman who spoke to the King when he took his pony ride Wednesday said:

"He looked particularly well. The keen air brought the color to his cheeks. He seemed in the best of spirits and enjoying his exercise. He wished me a good day in his usual kindly manner. I can not say how shocked we are to know how ill he is."

Empire Anxious

This anxiety had spread throughout the empire today and world statesmen speculated on the possibilities of the king's illness and its effect on empire and world politics.

SENATE DEBATES PRIOR TO BONUS VOTE

INFLATION ONLY ISSUE IN DOUBT; 69 TO VOTE AYE

Limited Argument Expected

BULKLEY IS UNCERTAIN

Donahey Listed in Favor of
Payment By System of
"Baby Bonds"

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—(UP)—A test on inflation was the only hurdle remaining today in the path of prompt Senate enactment of the "baby bond" bonus bill. Passage of the measure before tonight's session was anticipated as the Senate, in its first Saturday meeting of the session, clamped a limit on debate. The debate was raging through the early afternoon.

The inflation fight centered around an amendment proposed by Sen. Elmer Thomas, D., Okla. It was expected to be rejected as soon as a vote could be reached.

Denies Inflation
Thomas said during debate that his amendment should not be considered as inflationary but rather as an order expansion of currency within the range afforded by surplus gold and silver.

He proposes issuance of about $2,000,000,000 in new money, with which to pay the bonus, rather than use of bonds as in the Senate substitute for the bill passed by the House last week.

The bond plan, Thomas contended, would in the end cost about $4,000,000,000 because of the interest that would be paid over a nine-year period.

A Senate survey on the eve of the vote showed there would be against the bill when it is brought only a scattering of ballots to final passage.

The situation was as follows:

NEW COLD WAVE WHIRLING EAST; TO HIT SUNDAY

Zero Weather Predicted for
Chicago Area; Airplane
Traffic Halted

By UNITED PRESS
A swirling snowstorm swept over the midwest and whirled toward the Atlantic seaboard today, grounding airplanes and blocking many highways.

North central states were blanketed with snow. Northwestern Iowa reported the heaviest snowfall in a decade. Wisconsin country roads were impassable. Kansas and Missouri felt the effects of the storm yesterday as it moved rapidly toward the east.

Pushed by strong winds, the storm struck Chicago last night and was expected to leave six inches of snow on the ground. Available WPA and PWA workers were notified to report for snow removal duty.

Waves Lash Harbors
High waves lashed ice-packed Lake Michigan harbors. At Kenosha, Wis., the fishing tug Cheero, with a crew of four aboard, rode out the gale outside the harbor when ice chunks prevented a landing.

Both east and west airplanes were grounded at Chicago because of snow-covered landing fields in both directions. Plane service continued between Cleveland and Newark, N. J., during the night but was expected to stop when the full fury of the storm hit that area.

SANDRINGHAM, Eng., Jan. 18.—(UP)—A doctor's bulletin timed 3:30 p. m. (10:30 a. m. EST) said King George's cardiac weakness was slightly increased and was giving "cause for anxiety."

The bulletin was signed by the King's physicians, Lord Dawson of Penn, Sir Stanley Hewett and Sir Frederic Jeune Williams, and by Sir Maurice Cassidy, famous heart specialist who had been called into consultation.

SANDRINGHAM, England, Jan. 18.—(UP)—King George V lay gravely ill of bronchial catarrh today in a specially heated and ventilated room at Sandringham House, his country residence on the east coast.

Signs of heart weakness caused acute anxiety, and Sir Maurice Cassidy, heart specialist and physician extraordinary to the King, was summoned from London to reinforce three other physicians already at the bedside.

The King passed a comfortable night, after early morning illness. It was reported that oxygen, rushed from London late last night, was administered during the night.

Specialists Called
Other specialists were expected later today, to hold a consultation on the possibilities of complications.

Sir John Simon, home secretary—whose duty it is to be at a sovereign's death bed—was advised almost hourly of the king's condition.

Hoffman Directing Effort To "Clean Up" Abduction

Complete Solution of Lindbergh Abduction Only Way New Jersey Executive Can Clear Self After Reprieve; Wilentz
Ready to Issue Scathing Statement Against Governor

TRENTON, N. J., Jan. 12.—(UP)—Gov. Harold G. Hoffman prepared to meet a fresh onslaught of foes today while directing every resource he could command toward the one achievement that can lift him from political desperation to dazzling triumph—complete solution of the Lindbergh case.

Two lines of attack on the man who reprieved Bruno Hauptmann were forecast.

First, Attorney General David T. Wilentz, who prosecuted the convicted murderer of the Lindbergh baby, may make a statement that, it was understood, will be a bitter attack on the governor for issuing an allegedly illegal reprieve.

Justice to Resign?

Second, impeachment plans continued in the Legislature although action may be delayed until after a final decision on whether a taxpayer will start court proceedings to have the reprieve declared illegal. Such action might be the basis for impeachment, one prominent legislator said.

But greatest interest centered on developments in the drive of Hoffman—who has received half a dozen death threats as well as many letters of praise—to reopen every doubtful phase of the crime of the century in an effort to bring about a complete solution or a confession.

Hoffman's chief but distant goal was to discover whether persons other than Hauptmann were involved. It was understood that he had ordered new search for suspects, especially the mysterious man known as "John" who spoke with a "Scandinavian" accent.

YOUTH JAILED AS PURSE - GRABBER

Mrs. H. G. Stevenson Reports
Money Stolen Near Home

Police and county officers arrested a 16-year-old negro youth whose name was withheld Friday night for investigation following the third "purse-snatching" case in the city since Jan. 2.

The youth's arrested followed theft of a purse from Mrs. H. G. Stevenson at 11 p. m. Friday as she was walking near her home on W. Union-st. It contained five or six $1 bills, some change, a ring of keys, a vanity case and a silver pencil.

Near Residence

Mrs. Stevenson reported she was about 50 feet from her home when a man of medium height and with his face covered, walked up to her and said "How do you do." She said she spoke to him and he grabbed her purse, leaving the handle in her hand, and ran down an alley toward the downtown district.

She notified police and a search of the neighborhood was conducted by city officers.

A man answering the same description as given by Mrs. Stevenson made an unsuccessful attempt.

FIVE IN CONTEST FOR TWO COUNTY ELECTIVE POSTS

William Cline, Former Trustee,
Obtains Petition for Commissioner Job

WELDON FOR PROSECUTOR

Present "Dads" Withheld
Statements; Many Names
Mentioned for Primary

A free-for-all contest for the commissioner jobs now held by Burr H. Rader and Ralph E. May loomed today as additional names were added to the list of candidates.

William H. Cline of Mulhennberg-twp., leader among Pickaway-co's trustees, obtained a petition Saturday from the board of elections for the Democratic nomination. Mr. Cline is no longer a trustee but has served as an official of the state association, and has been active in county affairs for a long while.

He was a resident of Walnut-twp. until he recently removed to Mulhennberg-twp.

Four Others Named

Mr. Cline's name is placed beside those of John Bailey of Monroe-twp., William Deavers of Circleville and Scioto-twp., William Curry of Perry-twp., and John Keller of Scioto-twp. Mr. Bailey, Deavers, Curry and Keller have obtained petitions and have announced to friends and the press that they intend to run.

If all the persons who say they will be candidates file for the primary a situation probably never seen in Pickaway-co will exist. Both Mr. Rader and Mr. May are serving their initial terms. The former has declared often that he does not intend to run, but interviewed a few days ago, he said he had not definitely made up his mind. Mr. May is expected to be a candidate. It has always been an "unwritten" custom in the county that persons in office are permitted to run with only minor opposition. Since so many candidates are ready to enter the contest it is certain the competition will be far from mild.

Weldon for Prosecutor

Another name was entered in the race for prosecutor today when Lemuel Weldon, associated with his father, C. A. Weldon, in a legal practice, announced for the Republican primary. He intends to obtain a petition early next week.

Quite a coincidence will occur in the election, providing Mr. Weldon wins his primary and George E. Gerhardt, Democratic candidate, goes through his primary contest without defeat. Both candidates are sons of former prosecuting attorneys.

EX-SHERIFF GIVEN TWO-YEAR PEN SENTENCE

Ray Potts, Akron, Convicted of Conspiracy; Court Hands Out Maximum

CLEVELAND, Jan. 18.—(UP)—Ray Potts, former Summit-county sheriff, today prepared to enter the Lewisburg, Pa., federal penitentiary where he will serve a two-year sentence for conspiracy to violate the internal revenue laws.

Potts and five others were convicted late yesterday by a jury of nine men and three women. Federal Judge Samuel A. West pronounced sentence on them and five others who had pleaded guilty previously. The jury deliberated two and a half hours.

Accepted Money
A $2500 fine also was placed against Potts who was accused of accepting "protection" money from illegal liquor interests. Judge West said the case was "the most outrageous case of official corruption ever called to my attention."

Others convicted were J. J. Graham, Pat Moran and William Hatcher, former Summit county officers; Joseph Davis and Tony Straga, both of Akron. Graham and Moran were sentenced to 18 months imprisonment and fines of $500; Hatcher to 15 months; Davis a year and a day, and Straga was remanded to county jail pending hearing on a motion for new trial.

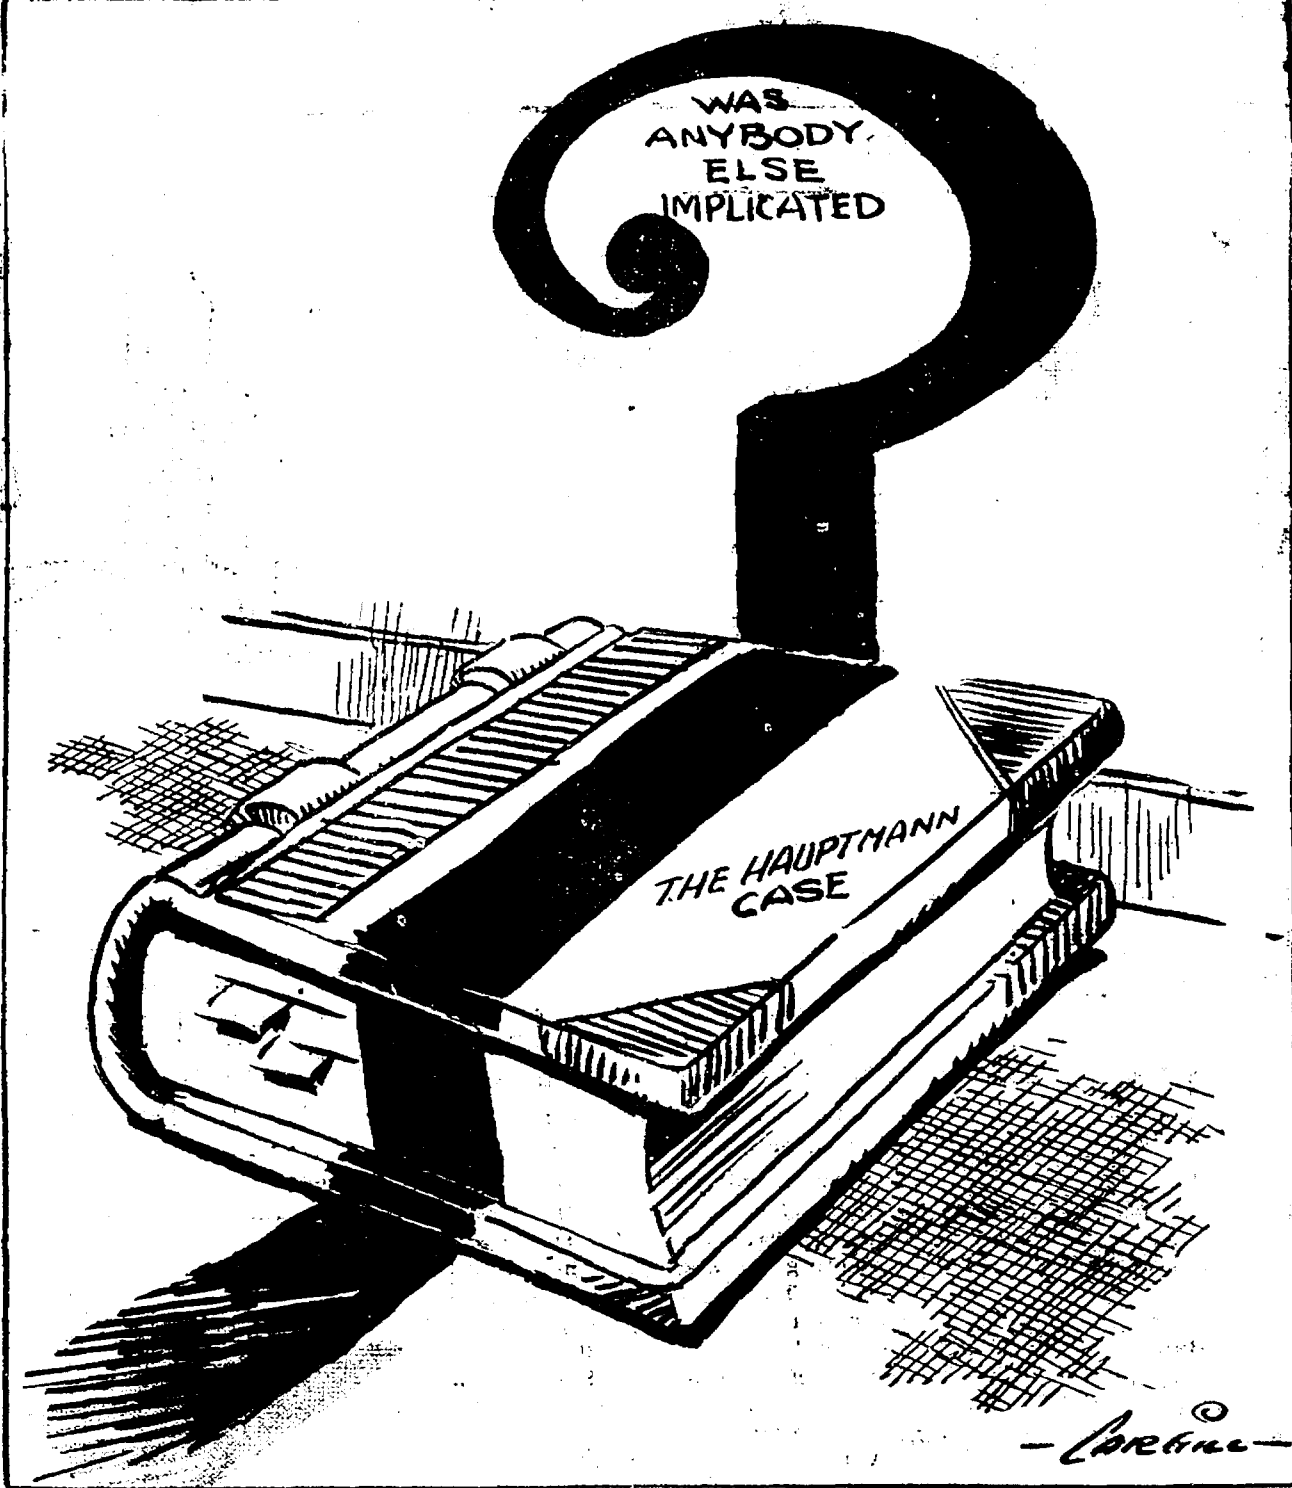

Those who had pleaded guilty were sentenced as follows: Ralph Palumbo and Ralph Nicastro, a year and a day; Steve Bartok, Fred Thomas and Henry Schoff, eight months.

Those acquitted because of lack of sufficient evidence against them were Robert Thomas, Henry Haynes and George Farris.

As he sentenced Potts, Judge West said:
"I am sorry, but in your case I must pronounce the maximum sentence. You were responsible as the sheriff of Summit-co."

HEROIC POSTMAN WINS LEGION OF HONOR REWARD

PARIS.—For a remarkable deed of heroism, a French country postman is to receive the Cross of the Legion of Honor.

Roger Benas was on his rounds after a terrific storm had devastated the district of St. Mamert-le-Barbe, when he found a roaring torrent swirling round the walls of a little schoolhouse and threatening to sweep it away. At the windows were the terror-stricken faces of the children.

Plunging into the flood, he rescued every child, one after another. Then, wet to the skin and bleeding from cuts and bruises, he retrieved his letters and went on his way.

NATION MOURNS KIPLING DEATH

Noted Writer to Be Cremated, His Expressed Desire

LONDON, Jan. 18.—(UP)—Messages of condolence on the death of Rudyard Kipling poured into London today from all over the empire he loved, and of whose real nature he first made many Britons conscious.

The body of the poet-novelist-historian was taken this morning from the bed in Middlesex hospital where he died to the hospital chapel.

It was said authoritatively that it would be cremated in deference to his own wish. Mrs. Kipling, it was said, decided to observe his desire after consulting Dr. A. E. Webb-Johnson, Kipling's chief surgeon, this morning.

Kipling's body lay before the altar of the hospital chapel, between the choir stalls.

Friends believed that his ashes might be honored with burial in Westminster Abbey in belated official recognition of his position as voice of an empire, whose cadences marched round the world to the rhythm of the feet of his immortal British Tommy.

Kipling died at 12:10 a. m. today. His widow, the former Caroline Starr Balestier of Vermont, held his hand. Beside her was their daughter, Mrs. Elsie Bambridge.

In the nature of a return engagement for Duchin and his band. At one time, they supported the original Fire Chief, Ed Wynn, in his programs of mad-cap hilarity; then, last summer, they carried the program along with a series of nationwide Eddy Duchin auditions.

As a piano soloist, Eddy has perfected an inimitable style with unusual effect; his right hand booms through the bass notes with the melody, his left hand—crossed over—harmonizes in the higher octaves.

Mr. Norris announced the address of James E. Van Zandt, national V. F. W. commander-in-chief, would be broadcast over station WADC, Akron, Sunday at 12:15 p. m.

OUR DEBATERS

(An Editorial)

Circleville high school should be proud of its debating team and their coach. They have been working most diligently, they are competent, and they are "going places"; and where they go they carry with them the Red and Black.

None the less proud should we be of the two alternates. It is one thing to work hard for the honor that may be involved; it is altogether another thing to work hard only to have others reap the reward. Yet this is what our alternates, for the honor of their school, have been doing.

It has been a number of years since Circleville high has been represented by a debating team. To a high degree the values to be derived from such an activity can be carried over to latter life. In fact it is doubtful whether in this important respect any activity at C. H. S. with the exception of our musical organizations, can vie with debating.

For this reason debating is important. It would be a fine thing if the interest growing out of the 1936 series of inter-scholastic debates should result in the formation of a debating club at C. H. S.

There will be in this year's series a total of five debates in which Circleville will participate. Of these only one will be local, the one with North on Monday. The subject chosen by the Ohio debating league is a timely one. Circleville citizens are cordially invited to attend.

We pupils and teachers owe to our team our enthusiastic backing! Victory to them and us is not less in importance to victory on field or track.

The score of this closely contested battle was seven to four in favor of the juniors at the end of the first half.

The tournament will be resumed next week.

HANDICRAFTERS MEET

Anne Thacher absent or tardy?

Bob Good very excited?

Dick Plum without a flock of girls?

Louise Helwigen without her "shadow"?

John Griffith without a signed excuse?

Paul Weaver coming to school early?

The office girls going to class?

Bob Owens being quiet?

Mr. Jewett without a rod in his hand?

Mr. Fischer in a closed car?

DEBATERS VICTORIOUS IN INITIAL ATTEMPT

Circleville upheld the negative side of the question "Resolved that the several states should enact legislation providing for complete medical aid at public expense." Amanda maintaining the affirmative.

Monday the affirmative team of C. H. S. which is composed of George Rader, Anne Vierebome and Thelma Piper, alternate, will support the affirmative case against North high school.

The debate which is scheduled for 3:00 in the afternoon will be open to the public as well as the student body.

ASSEMBLY AND TEACHERS HEAR BOLANDER ON ART

The teachers meeting at the high school Thursday afternoon and an assembly on Friday morning were both given the distinct pleasure of hearing Prof. Bolander of the Guild Crafters association.

Prof. Bolander addressed both groups on the subject "Art." A world traveler, Mr. Bolander has organized seven Guild Crafters associations including those in Columbus and Fort Wayne.

The assembly to which he spoke included the fourth to the twelfth grades.

BOYS IN GLEE CLUB AGAIN ACTIVE; STUDY NEW FOLIO

After four weeks of inactivity the Boy's Glee club, under the direction of Miss Priest, resumed practice Monday afternoon.

Practice was begun on a new music folio. The songs included "Shortnin' Bread," "Mighty Like a Rose" and "The Bells of Saint Marys."

A party is being planned for the club at the end of the year.

"VARIETY CLUB" NEW NAME FOR DRAMATICS SOCIETY

At their meeting Monday evening the Music and Dramatics group of the Girl Reserves voted to change the name of their club to the "Variety Club."

This change was made because of the varied activities of the club and that the former name implied only an interest in Music and Dramatics.

The meeting was held at the home of Wahnita Barnhart.

student opinion

What type of Assembly program do you consider the most interesting?

Matilda Davis, Senior:
I like variety, something similar to the program presented earlier in the year by the Stodge Club.

Musie, comedy, and a little gossip make an interesting well rounded program which, I believe, proves interesting to every one.

Dick Plum, Senior:
I like Assembly programs which have humor and originality are my choice. After seeing an original program with quite a bit of humor, your studies following this program seem to be easier and not quite so dry. Therefore the more humor and originality the better.

Jean Lucas, Junior:
A student-sponsored program seems to me the best because it has more variety and shows the different talents the students have who take part. It also holds the attention of the audience better.

Robert Denney, Junior:
Musical Assembly programs are the most interesting because they furnish enjoyment throughout the program. There aren't any dull moments such as there are in some speeches. All the students like music and it takes their minds from their studies.

Marjorie Leach, Sophomore:
Personally, I think some kind of a musical or a humorous program is the most interesting because it is not monotonous and is very enjoyable.

Erma Kuhn, Sophomore:
An example of what I consider an interesting chapel program is a pep meeting when everybody is in the mood to yell or do whatever he is asked to do by the cheer leaders. Music of almost any sort is a big help along with a chapel program.

Gail Dauenhauer, Freshman:
I think speakers are most interesting for chapel programs, especially those who make travel their subject. What is school for? It is to learn something. You can get plenty of amusement outside of school at shows, etc. So instead of the merriest programs lets have more speakers.

At the association meeting in February reports will be given of the pastor's convention to be held in Columbus the first week in February.

BISHOP HOBSON LEADS CHURCH FORWARD MOVE

CINCINNATI — The Episcopal Church is to use sound movies in its Forward Movement.

The Rt. Rev. Henry W. Hobson, D. D., Bishop of Southern Ohio and chairman of the national Forward Movement Commission of the Church, is planning to make this possible on a diocesan scale this year, and a national scale next year.

There is no reason why the church should remain in the horse-and-buggy stage of using lantern slides and such primitive methods when it has at its disposal such a great and effective force as the sound-on-film movie, Bishop Hobson said.

Plans for sound movies in the Church and other progressive moves are to be discussed by Bishop Hobson in his address to the Southern Ohio diocesan convention which meets January 21st and 22 in the Church of the Advent, Walnut Hills, Cincinnati.

The Clergy and delegates from each parish and mission in Southern Ohio are expected to attend the convention.

Bishop Hobson announced that he was planning to raise sufficient funds to start the work on an experimental scale in his diocese this year, with the intention of broadening it to a national and possibly international scope next year.

Films would be made of prominent speakers, and through portable sound movie projectors, the members of small parishes, who otherwise would be denied the opportunity of hearing the speaker, could hear the addresses.

Pictures could be made of parochial or diocesan institutions, of hospitals, orphanages, schools, missionary projects, that all the Church members might be acquainted with the work being done through the Church, that missions might be personalized.

HOLLAND STEERS LIBERAL COURSE IN ALL POLITICS

AMSTERDAM — As usual, Holland steered a liberal course in both internal and international politics during 1935.

Outstanding among its international activities was its strict adherence to the policies of the League of Nations. Although Holland steadfastly has refused before and after 1914 to be drawn into any international entanglement that did not have an idealistic aim, it made it clear that it believed in law and order.

Holland was one of the countries which sent military forces into the Saar to maintain during the plebiscite. It readily joined with other nations imposing economic sanctions against Italy in the Ethiopian dispute.

There was and still is a great deal of anxiety in Holland concerning Japan's intentions in the Netherlands Indies territory. Japanese inroads in the business and financial domains of the Dutch East Indies, many here fear, may lead to a more serious form of domination. Because of this fear, plans have been drawn for strengthening Holland's defenses both at home and abroad.

At home, Queen Wilhelmina still retains the affections and loyalty of her subjects. This was particularly demonstrated during her illness at the beginning of 1935.

Jesus Prepares for His Work

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Scripture—Luke 3:1-4:13

By the Rev. Alvin E. Bell And Alfred J. Baumbach

The way of Jesus' ministry was prepared by John the Baptist. He preached boldly to great multitudes in the wilderness, urging them to repent of sin and live Godly lives. He even denounced King Herod for his sin.

After a time Jesus came to John to be baptized, not because he needed to repent, but to identify himself with sinners and to be anointed and inaugurated to be the Messiah and Saviour of sinners.

After his baptism God led Jesus into the wilderness to be tested by the evil one. Jesus was hungry and Satan tempted him to change stones into bread to prove he was God's Son.

Jesus yielded to none of these temptations. He refused Satan's plan of making himself king through some easy and showy way. So Jesus was tempted as we are, but without sin.

"Jesus Prepares for His Work"

"BRASS TACKS" ON THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for Jan. 19 is Luke 3:1-4:13, the Golden Text being Luke 4:8, "Thou shalt worship the Lord thy God and him only shalt thou serve.")

By DR. ALVIN E. BELL
JESUS' preparation for his ministry goes back of today's lesson, through all those 30 silent years, to which God gave approval when he said of Jesus, "This is my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased."

The Preparation of John
John the Baptist, whose ministry was prophesied in the Old Testament prophets, was chosen of God to go before our Lord and prepare for him the King's highway into the hearts of men. The keynote of his ministry and message was repentance of sin which he sounded as fearlessly in the ears of the wicked King Herod as in those of publicans and people: "Prepare ye the way of the Lord, make his paths straight."

Bring forth fruits worthy of repentance. John's ministry was an incomplete ministry preparatory to a greater John was but the voice, Jesus, the Word; John the way preparer, Jesus the Way; John baptized with water, Jesus with the Holy Spirit; John's was a baptism unto repentance, Christ's unto regeneration; John must decrease, Christ must increase.

The Preparation of Baptism—BF
At Jesus' thirtieth year he came to John for baptism, not that he needed it for repentance or forgiveness, but to identify himself with sinful humanity and also for his official inauguration as the Lord's anointed Messiah and promised Saviour. It became the occasion for the Father's attestation of Christ's sinlessness and fitness for this high Messiahship. "Thou art my beloved Son; in thee I am well pleased." So the Father approved our Saviour and sent the Holy Ghost in bodily form upon him as a dove.

The Preparation of Temptation
Immediately following the baptism; anointing and heavenly attestation of Jesus he was led by the Spirit into the wilderness to be tempted of the devil. This "new model" in humanity must be thoroughly tested before being offered to the public. For 40 days that testing was continued before it came to its climax in the three temptations here recorded, which represent all the tempter had for Christ or has for us. The first temptation was in the realm of bodily passions and aimed at putting man on the level of the animal that lives to eat. "If thou art the Son of God, command this stone that it become bread." To this Jesus replied, "It is written, Man shall not live by bread alone. Man is more than animal; he has a spiritual nature that nothing material can satisfy."

The second temptation, "All this power I give thee, and the glory of them... If thou therefore wilt worship me, all shall be thine," represents every temptation to compromise with evil on the theory that the end justifies the means. "Thou shalt worship the Lord, thy God, and him only shalt thou serve." God needs no help from evil; he permits no compromise or division of allegiance.

The third temptation, "Cast thyself down," represents every spiritual temptation in the realm of false religion, the substitution of the spectacular for the spiritual. "Thou shalt not tempt the Lord thy God." Keep your eye on the cross, not on the crowd. Thus Christ was "tempted in all points like as we are, yet without sin."

COAST-TO-COAST FREIGHT LINES

RAILROADS of the country, struggling desperately for survival, are given another cause for concern in the reports on the initial experiments of a motor truck service established to enter the long-haul field of transportation service.

The first trips of the new line have been eminently successful. A train of motor trucks and trailers went from Chicago to Los Angeles in four and a half days with a pay load, which reduces by forty-six hours the best railroad freight schedule for the run. The train returned from Los Angeles to New York with another pay load, beating the best railroad freight schedule by seventy-two hours.

The maximum speed was thirty-five miles per hour. Drivers worked twenty-five hours at a stretch and slept six hours in a trailer. Although the two trips were successful beyond anticipation, reports indicate that they were productive of valuable lessons which will be utilized for the improvement of the service.

Successful operation of this new motor freight line must necessarily be disturbing to the railroad industry, which has suffered seriously reverses during recent years. The long haul has been its principal remaining source of strength and inroads upon this business will constitute a serious obstacle in the way of the roads' recovery.

But the people as a whole, as well as the shippers, have an interest in the development of this new phase of transportation. The right of way which these truck trains will use, often creating conditions of serious congestion, is the highway system of the country, built and maintained by taxpayers' money, not, as in the case of the railroad, by private capital.

This condition is unfair to railroads, by reason of the fact that competitors are given this great economic advantage, and also to the taxpayers generally, who should not be called upon to build and maintain right of ways for the benefit of private interests.

Ethiopia's soldiers are conducting their war along economical lines. Instead of opening up a barrage with six-inch guns they merely roll a few rocks down over a hill.

Bishop Cannon says prohibition will be back again in 10 years. Hijacking, bootlegging, speakeasy proprietorship and all the rest of the paraphernalia?

WORLD AT A GLANCE

Republican leaders are considering the possibility that wet-and-dry sentiment will weigh appreciably in deciding votes at next November's election.

And Democratic leaders are considering the possibility that Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt's personality will be an issue of some consequence to a certain class of voters. It seems like a ridiculous idea, but not a few political diagnosticians surmise that womanhood, to no small extent, will cast its ballots for or against the "first lady" rather than for or against her husband.

Prohibition will not be mentioned at the Republican convention, nor will Mrs. Roosevelt's personality be referred to at the Democratic gathering. It is on election day that the respective leaderships believe the divergent trends—dry versus wet; pro-Mrs. Roosevelt and contra-Mrs. Roosevelt—may manifest themselves. Of course they will be "dry" to the pro and "anti" to the anti, but in the event of a new deal fight, strategy is of the opinion that they will have quite a bit of

Governor Landon's scouts, questioning Washington politicians concerning their candidate's chances, have asked, again and again, "Will it be in Alf's favor or contravene that he is a son of the arid state of Kansas?" Most prognosticators appear to believe that his commonwealth's dryness will help more than it will hurt the sunflower realm's governor.

They reason thusly: "Wets will feel that prohibition repeal is too young to be reversed with in the administration of a single president—even a two-term. Therefore, if they are inclined to vote for him, they will vote for him anyway. But drys, still burning with resentment at repeal with President Roosevelt's sanction (the states did the ratifying but Roosevelt will be blamed by ardent prohibitionists) are likely to rally to a dry national candidate."

Senator Borah's dry record also is spoken of, but Borah's record is so miscellaneous that he doesn't stand out so sharply as a dry as does Landon, the Kansan.

FDR EXPECTED TO RE-APPOINT FOUR MEMBERS OF FEDERAL RESERVE BOARD

WASHINGTON—Inside word is that four members of the present Federal Reserve Board will be re-named by the President to the new Board that becomes operative February 1. They are Governor Marriner S. Eccles, who will head the new body, plus Charles S. Hamlin and Adolph C. Miller, personal friends of the President who have been on the Board since its creation in 1914; and M. S. Szymzak, the youngest member. Heading the list of new men to be appointed is Joseph A. Broderick, former New York State Superintendent of Banks . . . J. P. Morgans attends all hearings of the Senate munitions investigation attired in a wing collar, specially made for him in England. On the small finger of his left hand the international banker wears a large signet ring and hanging from his vest a heavy gold chain, both inherited from his father. Morgan smokes his frequent cigars in a short ivory holder embellished with a broad gold band.

JUDICIAL CAUTION

Presidential advisers are warning Roosevelt to be extremely careful about all appointments to the judiciary, even in the lower courts. At present a vacancy exists in the Federal judiciary in New York State, and Governor Lehman has selected Saul S. Streit, a New York Assemblyman unknown outside the state and of untested ability. Usually Lehman's recommendation is as good as gold with his friend Roosevelt, but this time there may be opposition. . . . Capitol policemen on night shifts spend their time trapping rats in the sub-basement vault once used as the first tomb of George Washington. . . . PWA theatrical projects are putting on a series of "Living Newspapers" in which unemployed newspaper men and actors act out the news. Unemployed circus clowns are being used to act cartoons. One of the first news stories being performed is on the Ethiopian situation. . . . Bachelor Justice McReynolds, who seldom speaks to some of his colleagues on the Supreme Court, hates tobacco smoke. Ladies attending his famous Sunday morning breakfasts are not permitted to light cigarettes.

MURDER UPSTAIRS

CHAPTER 48
WHILE I REHEARD Della's letter. I noticed that her mother's eyes were fastened on my face.
"Queer, don't you think?"
"Well, Miss Cambridge—" I wanted to say what poor Della had said in her letter, that Miss Cambridge was the prying kind, but I didn't. I stopped right there.
"It may be nothing," Mrs. Randall said, "but I thought you ought to see it. Della thought it was funny or she wouldn't have said so. I forgot all about it until I got on the train this morning, and started to go over her letters. You don't think that Miss Cambridge—"

"Killed Della? I don't," Mrs. Randall. However, the suggestion made me uneasy. I didn't like the idea of Marcella Cambridge investigating the rooms in the house. If she had gone into Della's room—Della, a servant—she must have entered the other rooms in the house. My room, too, for I'd never left it locked until Tuesday afternoon. Lucy's room. The shoes were an excuse, probably the first thing Miss Cambridge thought of because she was in the closet when Della came in. The gift the next day was a munitifone one, more so than she had ever made to any of my servants before. True, Miss Cambridge did give clothes to the girls now and then, but never had she given four pairs of practically new shoes at one time. Was it a bribe?

But it was an awful thing to even think that she might have killed the girl, simply because she had snooped about the house. I didn't believe that of Miss Cambridge.

"Anything more in the other letters?" I asked the woman.

"Only about people in the house."

I ran through some of the other letters, but they were just what Mrs. Randall had said, gossip, homely letters about everyone in the house, all of them more or less the same. One thing that struck me as significant was that in the letters I read there was mention at all of Mr. Harrington.

I asked Mrs. Randall if Della ever wrote about him, and she said she hadn't. That he had only been mentioned in one of the first letters, never since then. So Della wasn't even confiding to her mother her love for Martin Harrington?

The letter which referred to Miss Cambridge I gave to Sergeant Stone.

"I told Della not to worry because Miss Cambridge was probably doing nothing but looking over what she had," I'd forgotten until now.

"Then Miss Cambridge brought her shoes and Della was pleased to death. She didn't have much, poor child, and she was so grateful when anyone did anything for her. Maybe Miss Cambridge was looking to see what size shoes Della wore, and maybe she wasn't."

Mrs. Starbuck said that when she went for a walk, she was sure someone had been in her room. Not that there was anything there, but she didn't like the idea of people looking through her things. She was positive because the book she had been reading was lying face down on the chaise longue when she went out, and when she came back, it was closed, but in the same place. Looks like Miss Cambridge doesn't it?"

I nodded. Marcella Cambridge can't bear to see a book turned face down any place. More than once when she had come in to see me and I had put a book down that careless way while I talked with her, she had thrust a book mark in it, closed it properly. But then, Miss Cambridge is that way.

"Did she ever come in your room?" I inquired.

"I don't think so. Never caught her anyway. I always lock my room when I come downstairs. I have letters around I don't want anyone to see."

I knew what Grace meant. The letters from prison.

Miss Cambridge walked into the kitchen fully dressed, her best hat on and her seal coat which had been new the first year she came to me. Cambridge still looked as if it never had been worn more than a month. She was drawing on a pair of black suede gloves.

"Going out?" I marveled again at the care she took of her coat. She looked very smart when she was dressed for the street.

"Going out? Of course. I'm going to Mr. Darrin's funeral. And it seems, Mrs. Penny, that I'm the only person in the house who is going."

I've asked everybody except Mrs. Starbuck and she's asleep. Even Mrs. Upham refused to go. I must say that after I have sat at the table with Mr. Darrin for five years, lived in the same house with him for five years, it's the only decent thing you'd want for him. I should think you'd want her, too, under the circumstances.

Her meaning was perfectly apparent. "She was referring to the money I was to get from his estate, of course."

"Well—" I said weakly. I hadn't intended to go. There would be reporters to face as I got into a cab, more reporters probably at the undertaking parlors. I didn't think I could stand it. I had already been through so much.

"You should go," she urged. "It won't look right if you don't. Mrs. Penny." Her gloves were on and

DIET AND HEALTH

What Minerals Are Needed In the Healthful Diet?

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

WE SAW in our chemical analysis of the body of a man of 150 pounds that about 7% pounds were various kinds of salts containing the elements iron, calcium, phosphorus, potassium, sodium, iodine, magnesium and minute amounts of copper, manganese, zinc, fluorine and silicon.

About 20 to 30 grams of these minerals are lost by the body daily. A natural diet must, therefore, replace this loss.

An average American diet contains the following amounts of these chemicals per day:

Calcium 1.9 grams
Magnesium7 grams
Potassium 6.5 grams
Sodium 4.6 grams
Phosphorus 2.5 grams
Chlorine 5.8 grams
Sulphur 2.8 grams
Iron03 grams

Under ordinary circumstances, therefore, our diet contains sufficient replacement of the mineral salts without the necessity of worrying about it. In fact, under ordinary circumstances, our diet contains much more of certain salts than is absolutely necessary.

For instance, we probably take in about 20 grams of sodium chloride (common salt) a day. This is equivalent to a heaping tablespoon. Not all of this, of course, is taken as salt per se. There is sodium chloride in nearly all of our foods—milk, bread, meats, vegetables, and a good deal is added in the process of cooking. We could get along on probably two grams of sodium chloride a day.

Dinner Stories

THEN THE FUN BEGAN

He pulled up at the Hotel Colossus with a whirl of brakes. The attendant was beside the car in an instant.

"Good morning, sir," he said ingratiatingly. "Much luggage, sir?"

"Three bags," replied the young man, clinking out.

Three short blasts on a whistle brought three bell boys racing through the revolving doors, and the luggage was solemnly carried in. The attendant piloted the arrivals to the door, where the head porter was bowing abjectly.

"This way, sir."

Scurrying footmen paused respectfully to allow the guest unimpeded passage to the reception office.

"Name, please?"

"Stubbs—Timothy Stubbs."

"Care for a room, Mr. Stubbs?"

Tim Stubbs scratched his head. "I'd like one, miss, but do you think it'll be all right? You see, I'm the new waiter."

"Certainly not, sir."

"Perhaps you've belonged to the reserves or the militia of the state?"

"No, sir. I never belonged to any such thing."

"Perhaps you are one of those 'honorary colonels' that the government is always appointing?"

"Not that, neither, sir. Many persons hereabouts have official titles who are not entitled to them but I came by mine legitimately, sir. I married the widow of Col-

120 Enjoy Republican Benefit Party Friday

Ample Success: Prizes Awarded in Card Games

A social event of interest throughout the county was the benefit card party sponsored by the Republican women of the county in the American Hotel Coffee shop.

The affair was a very successful one with over 120 persons assembled in the spacious room. The entire county was well represented and thirty tables of contract and auction bridge, euchre, and five hundred were in play.

Mrs. Harry Heffner was winner of the door prize and favors for high scores in the various card games were awarded Mrs. Lawrence Goeller, Mrs. Adrian Yates, Miss Ann Bennett, Turney Weldon, and Dr. H. D. Jackson, contract bridge; Mrs. Marvin Rhoades, Raphek Dunlap of Kingston, Miss Rebecca Gordon, and Harry Steinhauer, auction bridge; Miss Rhoades and Orin Dresbach, euchre; Mrs. George Littleton and Dr. C. C. Watts, five hundred.

Refreshments were served to the group at the close of the evening.

The committee responsible for the success of the party was comprised of Mrs. Helen B. Anderson, Mrs. Howard Jones, Mrs. G. G. Leist, and Mrs. B. T. Hedges. They were assisted by Mrs. A. J. Lyle, Mrs. Anna Florence, and Mrs. G. L. Schlar.

Mrs. Lutz Entertains

Mrs. Earl W. Lutz, E. Main-st., was hostess Friday afternoon when she entertained the members of her thimble club at her home.

Twelve members and Mrs. Wilson Cellar of Westerville enjoyed the hours spent in sewing and the lunch served by the hostess.

Mrs. George Goodchild will be hostess to the club in two weeks.

Nahoe-Cline Marriage

The marriage of Miss Helen Nahoe to Mr. Robert Cline, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clark Cline of Ashville, is being announced by the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Nahoe of near Ashville.

The ceremony was read Nov. 13, 1935 in Kentucky.

Social Club Meeting

The Women's Social club of the Presbyterian church entertained the Men's club of the church Friday evening with a novel program. A group of 75 enjoyed the meeting.

Due to a late notice that the speaker, who was scheduled for the meeting, would be unable to appear, the club was fortunate in securing Karl S. Bolander, who is nationally known in the field of art and who is now director of the National Guildcrafters.

Mr. Bolander has been in the city the last two days having spoken to four different groups and reaching approximately 2000 citizens, including the teachers of the Circleville schools and both grade and high school students.

The program of the club opened with group singing of "America" after which Rev. E. S. Toens-

Wall Street Hails New Investment Giant Who Snatched Bargains in Depression

NEW YORK—Wall Street is hailing a new leader these days. He is Floyd Bostwick Odium, spectacled, lean-jawed president and presiding genius of Atlas corporation, rated as America's largest and fastest growing investment holding concern.

Odium is nicknamed "Fifty Per Cent" by baffled rivals because he buys up companies (often rivals) at 50 cents on the dollar. He has boomed Atlas from a modest $51,000 in 1923 to a $110,000,000 stock octopus whose tentacles reach out to such varied businesses as the operation of Mississippi river barge lines, the selling of frozen fruit, the control of Madison Square Garden, and the management of film studios, hotels and department stores.

Absorbs Company After Company Under Odium's watchful financial eye, Atlas, since the depression curtain fell on the golden days of Wall Street prosperity in 1930, has absorbed one holding company after another. In several cases the companies have been even larger than itself.

And it has all been because Odium continued cautiously bullish when stock prices were cracking around him, and the exchange became a mad house. Shares were selling for less than the actual value of the physical assets back of them.

Odium saw his opportunity. Because "Fifty Per Cent" Odium thought stock prices were fantastically high in the summer of 1929, he changed Atlas' $14,000,000 assets into liquid cash and short-term loans. It took courage, critics point out, for anyone to be a bear then, but Odium carried the day by sheer economic logic.

Rides the Storm

The catastrophe struck a few months later, and while gigantic corporate rivals tottered and tumbled into receivership and bankruptcy, Atlas corporation, with Odium's hand at the helm, sailed through the economic storm, holding on to its cash and waiting for the first sign of letup in Wall Street. It soon came.

Odium's plan was this: To absorb holding companies or investment trusts with valuable assets, liquidating immediately whatever could be sold, and hanging on to the remainder until prices should rise and Atlas' investments would be secured. Because many of these purchases brought with them physical control over factories, farms and transportation concerns, Atlas had to take over their operation, too.

Thus Odium found himself boasting not only paper properties, but men and machines likewise, a unique job, perhaps the first instance of this for the head of an investment company in Wall Street's memory.

Odium's Creed

Odium has brought new ideas into Wall Street since the depression. For one, he has always been bullish on the economic prosperity of the United States. And to his stockholders, who regard him with no little awe, Odium has preached the gospel of slow but gradual recovery, even while most of his rivals saw only ruin for years to come.

In 1931 Odium bought up 12 rivals, including the $32,000,000 Chatham Phoenix Allied corporation, with total net assets of $75,000,000. For other investment giants like Goldman Sachs Trading, Shenandoah, and Blue Ridge Securities, Odium waited until this "50 cents on the dollar" chance arrived and then he pounced. Often an owner, after haggling with Odium while the latter sat with his feet atop the desk apparently indifferent, would learn that he was trying to sell something Odium had already purchased quietly in the open market.

Under Odium, Atlas is a jack of all trades, the strangest investment trust ever listed on the exchange. Under his stewardship one of the largest bus companies in the country has been put back on its feet. He keeps a wary eye on barge lines hauling freight on the Ohio and Mississippi rivers between Cincinnati, St. Louis and New Orleans. In California, Odium has the twin tasks of seeing that a 1,300-acre fruit ranch and Atlas' other investments in several of the largest movie studios run smoothly, so that dividends can continue.

All Sorts of Food, Too

Hamburgers, sausages and strawberries are other of "Fifty Per Cent's" pet hobbies, mostly because Atlas owns control of several frozen food factories, and they continue to pile up good profits. And on the recreation side, Odium tries to have Madison Square Garden always filled ever since Atlas bought a sizeable part of New York's most famous sport center.

On the conservative side, Atlas is interested in a San Francisco bank, third largest institution west of Chicago. And other subdivisions of Atlas portfolio include potent public utility properties. Here, however, Odium can supervise almost with his eyes shut, they say.

He got his first taste of Wall Street and the lure of the ticker tape in public utilities. It all began when Odium, graduating from Colorado university law school and winning the highest bar exam marks, found himself in Salt Lake City in 1914, jobless but enterprising.

Minister's Son

Son of a Methodist minister, Odium, before he had reached 21, had picked fruit, dug ditches, piled slabs in a lumber yard, worked in truck gardens, clothing stores, sold maps, substituted in libraries, run rooming houses, edited a college newspaper and ridden an ostrich in a fair ground race. He was rated, fairly good at all of them, even though a horse won the race with the ostrich.

In Salt Lake City, Odium worked for a public utility company of $50 a month. Gradually Odium learned the intricacies of "locking" corporations. He was good and the company soon sent him to New York, where he became the favorite lawyer of Henry Z. Mitchell, dynamic influential public utilities magnate. From 1926 to 1931 Odium traveled frequently abroad, buying up power plants. At the same time, however, he kept a finger in his own pygmy holding company, Atlas. In 1931, when his firm swelled to $53,000,000 in assets, Odium gave Atlas all his time.

His Family

Odium has two sons. He was divorced recently by his wife, Mrs. Hortense McQuarrie Odium, whom he had made adviser of one of Atlas' properties, a fashionable department store in New York. He likes to model in city for relaxation, drinks milk and takes frequent summers in his mountain camp near Logan, Utah.

TIGERS IN 26-22 COL MARGIN OVER BEXLEY'S OUTFIT

Styers and Jenkins Do Most of Scoring as Suburban Team is Turned Back

Jack Landrum's Tigers played a steady game of basketball Friday evening and returned to the victory column after a little vacation. Bexley was the victim, 26-22, the game being played on the east Columbus court.

In other Central Buckeye league games: Delaware, 24; Grandview, 22. Marysville, 24; Westerville, 16. The Tigers took a 9-6 lead at the first period but lost that margin early in the second quarter. At one time Bexley led 11-9 but at half-time the Red and Black was again on the long end by spurring to an 18-12 lead.

Five points separated the teams at the three-quarter pole, 22-17. John Jenkins, who has been out with an infected foot, was in the lineup and played his usual good game. He tallied seven points and did a lot of the passing that gave his teammates scores. He will not be in tonight's game against Amanda, Coach Landrum intending to permit him as much rest as possible before the Grandview game.

Chuck Styers snapped out of it and hit for 10 points, the first time this year he has scored what was expected of him.

Bailey, Bexley captain, was high man in the game with 12 but he shot the ball toward the basket every time he obtained the ball.

The Tiger reserves took it on the chin, 34-9. Bill Hunt and Charlie Bonner, Ohio State and Ohio university guards, respectively, were the officials.

STATE SENDS SHOTGUN SHELLS FOR CROW WAR

H. E. Betz, president of the Pickaway Farmer's and Sportsman's association, announced the receipt of a carton of 5500 shotgun shells Friday morning from the state Department of Conservation, for use on Pickaway-co crows and hawks.

The rules of the department require 20 crows or four hawks be killed with each box of 25 shells. Crow feet are to be saved and heads of the hawks kept by the hunters to show their scores. Local sportsmen plan to use the shells largely at crow roasts. Night hunting parties are planned and stuffed owls, hawks or chickens will be used near the roost for daytime shooting.

About THIS and THAT In Many Sports

Tiger's Play Tonight

Victorious over Bexley, the Tigers take on another Central Buckeye foe, Grandview in the CAC gym Tuesday evening. Grandview lost to Delaware last night and, with the exception of Forrest, fast forward, doesn't seem to have a whole lot. Tonight the Tigers meet Amanda in the local gym, following a prelim scheduled for 7:30.

Steinbrook's Case

"The Case of Henry Steinbrook" can be the title for the following yarn—Steinbrook, as most county court fans know, has starred with Ashville, this being his third year. He is now ineligible because he attended the Greenfield high school more than 15 days in his sophomore year. He became ineligible last Monday, so all games played by Ashville are official. It was just lucky that Ashville school authorities learned about the youth in time to keep him out of the New Holland game. A report in New Holland that all Ashville's games were to be thrown out because of Steinbrook, reached the ears of Ashville residents an inquiry opened.

Fault of Record

The athlete was not to blame. He received his freshman credits at Greenfield, then entered the sophomore year, but illness, a death in the family, and removal to Ashville permitted him to attend his second year of school for only a short time. He took no examinations, and received no credits. Greenfield school authorities in forwarding his record to Ashville did not list that he had attended the second year of high school. A pupil must attend any school only 15 days to receive credit for a semester, so he is out. The loss is a blow to Ashville's high hopes for a county title, but Dick (Cutie to you) Hedges played a nice game Friday and Jerry Millar has turned on a little more speed to help out.

Scores On Squad

Jim Scoles, ex-Ashville star, is still on the Ohio State freshman squad, despite plenty of cutting. Scoles, always a high scorer in the county, was dropped from the squad, but school officials saw him score 27 points in an outside contest and immediately ordered him back for duty.

Countians Victorious

Pickaway-co basketballers at Ohio State defeated Darke-co's team, 33-7, last week. On the local aggregation were Gene Briggs, Tom Kirwin, Ray French, Ralph Dunkel and Floyd Graves. Others getting into the fray were Carl Gulick, Mace Brown, Wells Wilson, Bob Mace, and Ross Dodd.

Retzlaff Added to List Of Joe Louis's Victims

Big Fellow Kayoed in First Round; Makes Negro Angry by Smacking Blow in Brief Chicago Heavy Go

CHICAGO, Jan. 18.—(UP)—Charley Retzlaff today was a minor item in the amazing saga of Joe Louis and his magic gloves.

Only one day ago the big, raw-boned North Carolina farmer was an important hurdle in Louis' clear path to a million-dollar fight with Max Schmeling and a probable title shot with Jimmy Braddock. But today the Retzlaff thing was a laugh, and a short one, too. Shorter, even, than the one minute and 25 seconds it took Joseph to list Retzlaff's name with those of Carnera, Levinsky, Baer, Paulino and all the rest.

Knocked Down Twice

Joe dumped Retzlaff twice, the second time for keeps, and today his main worry was that of another soft touch, this time in his home city of Detroit.

They hailed last night's Chicago stadium session as the biggest "if" fight in years. There were "ifs" as to Louis' condition, the possibility of Retzlaff landing a lucky one, and many another weird angle. But not one of the "ifs" stood up. Louis sailed in, took his man almost as soon as he wanted, pocketed some $23,000 and called it a night—and a very brief one at that.

Actually there were but 67 seconds of fighting. Retzlaff was down once for a count of eight, and the kayo toll took up another ten seconds which, subtracted from the official time of 1:25, left 1:07 of mediocre punch-swapping for which 16,500 persons paid $67,500 to witness.

Say this much for Retzlaff: he really did try, but, as Louis said while sitting in his dressing room after the fight, without even one bead of perspiration showing on his cocoa-colored body, "at guy just couldn't take it."

Actually it was Retzlaff who hit the first real blow. He was the first of Louis' last four opponents to have come in rushing, and actually forced Joe into the ropes within the first minute. The North Dakota lad scored a neat right to the head and Louis pulled in his guard. The crowd, breathless for a moment, cheered madly for the puncher who dared to carry the fight to Louis, as none has done during Joe's skyrocket year.

Short Show Over

They saw the answer, too. Louis shot over a right to the body. Retzlaff backed away. Louis raced after him. He fired a blistering right cross to the jaw. Retzlaff sagged down to the floor. At the count of eight he was up again, dazed, wavering, with his guard aloft. Again a blinding lightning struck. This time it was a whirling left hook which sent Charley reeling. He crumpled onto hands and knees. The referee counted "ten" and the show was over.

FIGURES ON FIASCO

CHICAGO, Jan. 18.—(UP)—Approximate figures on the Louis-Retzlaff fight:

Attendance	16,500
Gross receipts	$67,500
Net receipts	$56,000

ASHVILLE QUINT BEATS HOLLAND IN 28-22 GAME

Kauber's Boys Only Undeafed Team in County; Darby Girls' Slate Clean

Ashville boys and Darby girls remained today as the only unbeaten, untied teams in the county court loop after turning back worthy foes Friday evening. Al Kauber's boys, minus their star guard Henry Steinbrook, knocked off New Holland on the latter court, 28-22, narrowly protecting a wide early lead, and the Darby girls put on the pressure to whip Scioto, 37-13, on the Derby whodow.

These teams are now favorites for The Herald's trophies.

Ashville and New Holland entered their game with the leadership at stake, neither having tasted a beaten, but the sharpshooting Harrison-two boys soon settled the issue by caging 14 points in the first period. Chuck Ater's goal was all New Holland could garner in that session.

Gregg, Young Connect

New Holland was using a zone defense in the opening session and the result was that Walter Gregg and Chuck Young were pegging the ball from the sides and corners to hit consistently. No defense can stop a hot team and that is what Ashville was Friday in the early part of the game.

The second period ended 14 to 6. In the third period—which saw Young, who was covering Everett Landman, score his third personal—New Holland outscored the leaders 8 to 7, but didn't manage to cut into the big lead until the final period when eight points were counted against three.

Steinbrook, who has been doing yeoman work for three years for the Ashville team, has been declared ineligible for the remainder of the year. (More about that in "This and That").

Ashville girls surprised by winning, 20-17, with Young, sister of the varsity center, tallying 11 counters.

Pickaway, Tallies 52

Pickaway-two, face of Ashville next Wednesday evening, ran up the biggest score of the year, 52-27, over Salsereek. The Darby girls gave Pickaway an awful scrap but failed, 17-21.

Monroe's boys and girls enjoyed themselves at Darbyville by taking Muhlenberg in two games. Boys score was 28-24 and the girls, 14-9.

Walnut used its entire squad in its 33-20 victory over Washington while the Walnut girls remained in the running for the tournament by copping, 35-12.

Williamsport's "Rough and ready" took Jackson, 22-13, after a hard fight. The winner led 15-10 at the half. Williamsport girls were also victorious, 16-13.

Scioto won another ball game, this time defeating Darby, last year's tourney champs, 15-10, while the Darby girls turned the tables in the 37-13 fray.

This week's feature game will bring Ashville and Pickaway together Wednesday evening. Ashville faces the task of stopping Rhoades and Anderson, Coach Carl Burger's fleet forwards, while Pickaway has a tough assignment in keeping Gregg, Young and Millar tied up.

BUCKEYE "5" TO MEET IOWA CAGERS TONIGHT

COLUMBUS, Jan. 18.—(UP)—Whether Ohio State remains as a title possibility or drop out of the championship chase in the Big Ten will be answered here tonight when the Bucks meet Iowa.

With a conference record of two victories and two defeats, a triumph is imperative if Ohio is to retain a chance of sharing in the title.

Iowa has two conference and one defeat. The Hawkeyes downed Illinois by a one point margin and defeated Ohio 25 to 23 in a game a week ago at Iowa City. The quintet's setback came from Wisconsin, a team which the Bucks had humbled easily.

Iowa has a relatively green team, but one which will outsize Ohio considerably.

The Hawkeyes have two veteran forwards in Captain Johnny Barco and Sid Rosenthal, but the remainder of the team is inexperienced.

Besides the two veteran forwards Iowa will start Jack Drees, six-foot-five-inch center, and Joe Van Ysseldyk and Ken Sussens guards. Van Ysseldyk is six-foot-one and Sussens, five-foot-eleven.

THE EARLY EDUCATION OF SNOOKS

CONTRACT BRIDGE

By E. A. SHEPARD, Famous Bridge Teacher

MASTERING BRIDGE (44)

CORRECT technical training makes plain how expensive blind opening leads from tenaces and certain other honor holdings are against trump calls. Common sense informs us that when senior holds the A-Q of a side suit, that there must average to be one case in three when declarer will hold the missing K. If any other player leads senior's suit he will win tricks with both his high honors, but if he leads the suit he makes a present to declarer of a trick. Taking into consideration possible ruffs by declarer or dummy, we find the exact differences to the holder of A-Q, who opens that suit, are 10 cases in the 27 possible different ways whereby the missing honors may be divided among the other three players. These 10 cases in 27 possible different ways K-J-10 may lie, amount to a total of 9 1/2 tricks.

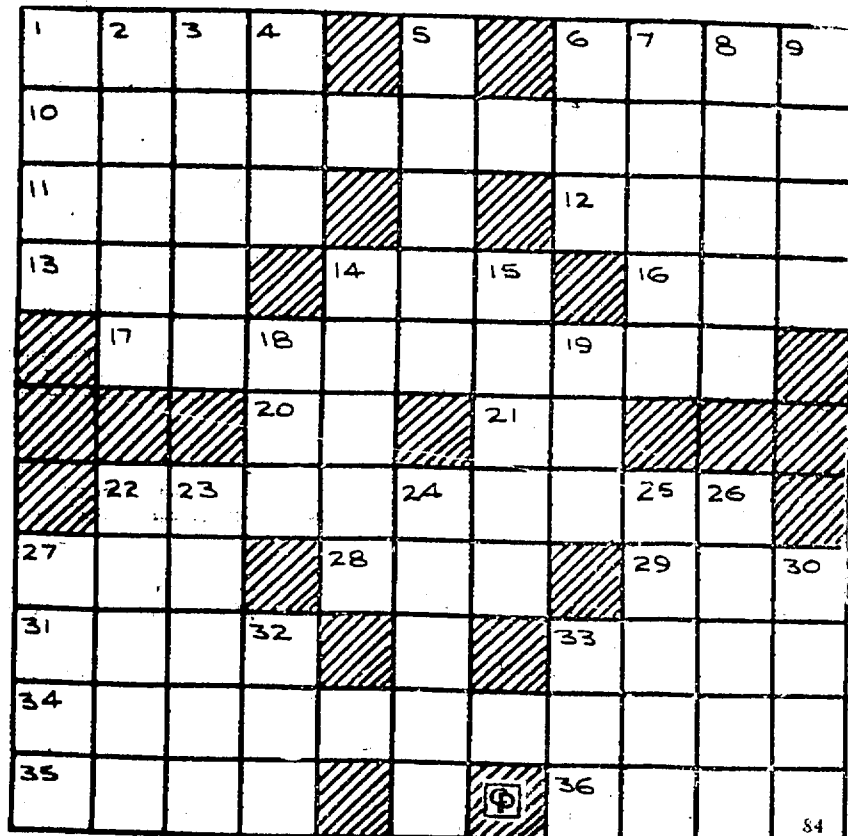

Aside from the question of ruffing, one-third the time it means a need- less loss of a trick to blindly open any one of these tenaces: A-Q-J-10, A-Q-J, A-Q-10 or A-J-10. It makes a difference of two tricks in nine cases who leads your K-Q-10 or K-J-10 suit, and six times in 27 cases it means a difference who opens your K-J suit.

Lacking a better suit of your own to lead, naturally you will make a directed lead of your partner's suit, regardless of the question of what honors you may hold therein. There is a single case where you should open your longest and strongest suit, regardless of the particular honors you may hold therein. This happens when your partner has made an opening bid of no trumps, that second hand has overcalled with a suit. Presumably your partner has some honor strength in each of the plain suits (those not the trump). Your best chance to defeat the adverse call is to hammer declarer with the suit in which you and partner hold the most strength.

Here is a case quite possibly different from the above, not making it so certain that you should not mind opening away from your tenace suit. Declarer opened the bidding. Your partner made a 1-No Trump overall as fourth hand. Declarer rebid his suit and was allowed to play the suit named. Your partner's acts show one or more steps to the run of trumps, with something in the two unbid suits in which you may be weak. The other unbid suit you hold strongly. Quite probably your partner holds little or none of the missing honor strength of your best suit. Probably declarer holds the missing strength, if concentrated, giving you an excellent opportunity to trap declarer later on. In the meanwhile you had better make a blind opening lead of your second best suit, counting on partner also to hold some strength in the suit.

It is believed the appointment will be made Monday. Donahey and Senator Robert Bulkley have been conferring over the appointment and are thought to have sifted their selections until three now head the list.

Reports from the nation capital give Congressman Mell G. Underwood a good chance for the appointment. The complete list of applicants includes:

York and their two little girls, the Princesses Elizabeth and Margaret Rose, were at Sandringham House. They included four possible future sovereigns of England and rulers of one-fourth the world's territory and population, of a continent—Australia—of dominions, colonies and protectorates in every continent, of islands that dot the seven seas.

The succession is the Prince of Wales, the Duke of York, the King's second son, and his daughters—first Elizabeth, nearly ten, then Margaret Rose, who is 5½.

Third Son Is Ill

Other members of the family were expected today, except for the Duke of Gloucester, the third son, who is ill at Buckingham palace in London.

The King contracted a chill after riding about the estate and along nearby roads on his favorite white pony Wednesday. It was announced yesterday morning that he had a slight cold and was remaining indoors as a precaution.

Last night the heart weakness was detected. Sandringham House was ablaze with lights all night. Even after daybreak every window remained lighted in witness to the anxiety inside.

The Prince of Wales and Duke of York were up early to inquire of the King's condition. The little postoffice of the estate was overwhelmed with telephone inquiries and was unable to answer them for lack of a formal bulletin this morning.

It was not until today that some villagers learned of the King's illness. They did not hear the bulletin, announcing the heart weakness, which shocked the nation when it was broadcast just before midnight last night. Interrupting dance programs. As the King lay ill last night a British Legion post dance was being held in the village hall of Dersingham near the estate.

The villagers stood today on the snow covered roads discussing the illness. A woman who spoke to the King when he took his pony ride Wednesday said:

"He looked particularly well. The keen air brought the color to his cheeks. He seemed in the best of spirits and enjoying his exercise. He wished me a good day in his usual kindly manner. I can not say how shocked we are to know how ill he is."

Empire Anxious

This anxiety had spread throughout the empire today and world statesmen speculated on the possibilities of the King's illness and its effect on empire and world politics.

during the ransom negotiations and was identified as Hauptmann.

The new investigation was expected to center first along three lines which may require so much time that, according to one source, additional reprieves will be granted, assuring Hauptmann life until summer.

1—An effort to prove that John was an accomplice of the kidnaper. When Dr. J. F. (Jaffie) Condon and Col. Charles A. Lindbergh paid the ransom money, Condon talked to John. Lindbergh saw a man outside the cemetery rendezvous who appeared to be a lookout and who dropped a handkerchief on the street. Whether this man was the same one who took the ransom money or an aide or a mere bystander has remained in doubt.

Check on Faulkner

2—A new check on the mysterious J. J. Faulkner, who turned in a large amount of gold notes at a New York bank which, on the same day, discovered a batch of ransom money in its tills. The amount of ransom money was within ten dollars of the amount Faulkner turned in, but there has never been conclusive proof that he handed in the notes. The name apparently was a fake.

3—A recheck on the stories of several witnesses, possibly including Jaffie to clear up several reported contradictions or discrepancies.

In addition, Ellis Parker, the country detective of Mount Holly, N. J., continued his investigation. He told the United Press that he had not seen or talked to the Governor for ten days but that his interest continued and that he was available at any moment Hoffman wants him.

Speculation centered on the tion, opened on such a comprehensive scale, might lead to further reprieves for Hauptmann. Sources close to Hoffman hinted at more reprieves.
